CANTON CHANGING PRESENT TYPE OF TRAINING PLANES

Too Many Accidents Occurring

NOT SUITED TO MILITARY OR STUNT FLYING

[From Our Own Correspondent] Canton, To-day.

As the result of the frequent crashes of certain U.S. manufactured training planes, Lieut. General Wong Kwang-yui, Commandant of the Canton Air Force, has ordered his officers not to fly those machines any more. Most of the accidents were due to engine trouble.

The latest accident occurred last Tuesday, when one of the machines dived into the Pearl River at Tungshan. Second-Lieutenant Chen Shan was drowned, while Second-Lieutenant Yen Chen-chuan, occupying the rear seat, was picked up by sailors of the river boat Kin Yue.

Lieut. Colonel Chen Shun-yuan, a squadron leader, met his death while piloting the same type of monoplane trainer some time ago. It failed to climb after a steep dive and crashed on a building in Yen Tang Military Academy.

The planes are considered unsuitable for military training. The Air Force recently bought six of them, but they have been found unfit for military or stunt flying. The company produces mostly machines for civil aviation.

Lieut. Yen is being treated at Sun Yat-sen University hospital. His condition is not serious.

COL. HOPWOOD O.C. TIENTSIN AREA

Capt. Errol Manners Promoted

London, To-day.

Colonel A. H. Hopwood has been appointed commander of the Tientsin area, effective from September 27.

Captain Errol Manners has been promoted to Rear-Admiral and retired, coincident to his return to England commanding H.M.S. Suffolk. — Reuter.

BACK TO THE DAYS OF CAESAR

100,000 SHOW DEVOTION TO IL DUCE

ENGLAND, ETHIOPIA AND JAPAN DENOUNCED

Rome, To-day.

Some 100,000 Rome citizens "culled out a holiday" last night. They gathered at 10 p.m. in the precincts of the Foreign Office to stage a parade of devotion and solidarity to the Duce, but all the venom engendered by the long and bitter press campaign was turned upon the respective lions of Britain and Judea.

They were bearing banners, one of which pictured the Fascist axe under the British and Japanese flags, another showing the Ethiopian Emperor hanging by his trousers to the Fascist sheaf symbol.

Fascist youth organizations interspersed revolutionary songs with shouts of "Down with England, Ethiopia and Japan!"

The League also received invectives, but there were gigantic posters and streamers caricaturing the above countries and bearing slogans: "Rome will save Europe" and "We shall win." Some of the posters depicted Europeans and Japanese fraternising with Africans, and others alluded to the slave traffic. Occasionally cries of "Malta, Malta!" rose above the din.

SHARP RISE OF BANK RATE IN NETHERLANDS

MEASURES TO REPULSE ALL ATTACKS

Amsterdam, To-day.

The bank rate has been raised to 6 per cent. — Reuter.

A Trans-Ocean Service message from Amsterdam states that more than a century has gone by, recalled several leading men in the world of finance there yesterday, since the Bank of the Netherlands has been obliged to raise the bank rate by 2 per cent. at one time. This happened during the crisis in 1823 and again in 1825, but in the critical days of August 1914 it was only found necessary to raise the bank rate 1½ per cent.

Press comments. The Algemeen Handelsblad says that this most exceptional measure proves that the Government is determined to hold to the stability of the guilder whatever the cost. The rise in the bank rate, continues the paper, will prove effective because the Government is capable of satisfying all possible demands that can arise. The political reasons alone might prove threatening.

MINISTRY RESIGNS

The Hague, Later.

The Colijn Ministry has resigned. The Queen is considering the position. — Reuter.

STABILITY MAINTAINED

A later message says that the Queen wishes the Cabinet to continue to act fully for the present in order to maintain the guilder stability. — Reuter.

BOWLER'S SON SUFFERING FROM BROKEN ARM

Gordon Beer, the young son of the popular Craigengower bowler, had an unfortunate accident yesterday which resulted in his removal to the French Hospital. He was climbing on a chair in his home when he slipped and fell heavily on his right arm, breaking it seriously above the elbow. — Reuter.

NON-ARYAN RESIDENTS IN GERMANY

Artistic And Intellectual Pursuits To Be Regulated

"CHINA MAIL" SPECIAL. Berlin, To-day. The director of the Reich Chamber of Culture, Herr Hans Hinkel, has been appointed by the President of the Chamber, Dr. Goebbels, to be the special Commissioner for the supervision and control of all non-Aryan German subjects resident in Germany in the artistic and intellectual fields. — Trans-Ocean Service.

CONFUSION IN U.S. SILVER BLOC

Government Intentions Obscure

Washington, To-day.

More than ever silver circles are in the dark as regards what the next move of the silver programme might be. The confusion is heightened by the split in the Senate silver "bloc" and the conflicting remarks of the various Senators, some of whom appear to be convinced that President Roosevelt could not promise $1.29 an ounce for silver.

While the more aggressive silver circles are prepared to battle for unrestricted silver trading, traders are inclined to hold off pending developments, some advancing the theory that the Treasury might be at present trying out the suggestion that it is able to stabilise silver at any desired level. — Reuter.

HAPSBURG RETURN LESS SURE

Significant Moves In Provinces

BACKED BY GOVERNMENT APPROVAL?

Vienna, To-day.

The early return of the Hapsburgs has become less sure in consequence of three provinces renouncing the royal family in the past 24 hours.

The province of Vorarlberg has promulgated a law relating to the nomination of honorary citizens which rules out the Archduke Otto.

Similarly, the Governor of Upper Austria has issued a decree prohibiting the nomination of Otto, while the official Tyrolean newspaper Bauernbote says that it is wrong to attempt a restoration.

It is pointed out in Vienna that these significant moves would be impossible without Government approval. — Reuter.

WEATHER REPORT

A weak anticyclone covers Japan and a ridge of moderately high pressure extends from it to South-east China. The depression over Tongking is decreasing in intensity. The position of the typhoon to the east of the Philippines is uncertain. South-east winds, moderate, cloudy, occasional rain, improving later, was the forecast for to-day, as issued by the Royal Observatory this morning.

ONLY ADHERENCE TO 1908 TREATY

LAVAL TO BE PRESENT AT GENEVA

PROTECTORATE SUGGESTION

London, To-day.

All the rumours that England had lifted the embargo on the supplies of arms and munitions to Abyssinia were dispersed by the Foreign Secretary's reply to a question from the leader of the opposition, Mr. George Lansbury, in the House of Commons yesterday afternoon.

Sir Samuel Hoare stated: "The transit of arms for Abyssinia through British territory or protectorates will be permitted under the treaty of 1930. The French Government puts the same interpretation on the obligations under this treaty."

"The granting of licences for the export of munitions from England is another matter. Since the Government is doing all it can to contribute to the solution of the unfortunate dispute and does not desire to prejudice the situation in any way, no export licences for arms destined for Abyssinia will be issued."

ITALY MAKES OFFER TO ABYSSINIA

Further Arbitration Suggested

BRIGHTER OUTLOOK

Geneva, To-day.

A further offer to Abyssinia is contained in a note from the Italian Government published by the Secretary-General of the League. The note expressed a desire to carry through the completion of the procedure of conciliation and arbitration interrupted solely owing to the fact that the agent of the Ethiopian Government presented at Scheveningen claims to discuss before the Commission questions excluded by the arbitration agreement.

It intimates that the Italian Government has sent further instructions to Abyssinia confirming the offer to resume the proceedings of the Commission on the understanding that they should remain within the limits of the Arbitration Commission agreement and asking that Abyssinia withdraw its claim and thus enable the Commission to continue its work.

ITALIAN COMPROMISE? The note is regarded as an indication that Italy considers the conciliation procedure not yet exhausted, and is taken to imply that they seek to confine the discussion at Geneva to the frontier incidents and the terms of reference of the conciliators, leaving the Council to suggest the desirability of nominating the fifth arbitrator. This policy would meet the views of the French Government, delaying the general discussion for a month, but it is (Continued on Page 14)

MR. CHOU LU SENDS CABLE TO THE LEAGUE

Japanese Aggression Denounced

GENEVA PROMISES SPECIAL ATTENTION

[From Our Own Correspondent] Canton, To-day.

Special attention is being given by the League of Nations to the telegram of Chancellor Chou Lu of Sun Yat-sen University asking that body to use its influence to check Japanese aggression in China, according to a communication from Dr. Wou Shou-fung on behalf of the Political Department of the League received at the University yesterday afternoon.

Chancellor Chou Lu's telegram was sent on June 19 to M. Joseph Avenol, Secretary-General of the League, and urged the League to take action against Japan, as Nanking is not ready to make a protest for fear of further Japanese hostilities. A similar telegram was dispatched on the same day to the signatories of the Nine-Power Treaty through the courtesy of Mr. Cordell Hull, American Secretary of State. (Continued on Page 14)

Lovely Lingerie And Negligees

Never More Exquisite Than To-day

REFRESHING RESPIRE FOR TIRED SHOPPERS

The most refreshing respite for the tired shopper is the lingerie shop. Whether it be illusion or not, the quantities of chiffon negligees that blow around there, the misty mousselines and the triple sheer nighties in ethereal prints create a private summer world that you've dreamed about.

Languish there a while and you will certainly want to vision at least a few of these summer fashions in your wardrobe.

If you are the type to wake up bright and fresh in the morning your family will adore seeing you in crisp organdie or dotted Swiss for orange juice and coffee. If morning still seems like the middle of the night, float out like Ophelia, in layers and layers of palest chiffon.

Feminine Flounces
Remember, there is nothing more feminine than a flounce, unless it is shirring. Both appear in the current lingerie collections. Flounces flutter around the hems of triple sheer printed nighties, drip down the front of negligees and drop down over the shoulders. Shirring, too, adds the feminine note to bodices of misty gowns and negligees.

They look frightfully impractical, but all of them are not. The negligees that are minus trains and have short ruffy sleeves instead of long dripping ones, that have low necklines with softening detail, are the most comfortable and the most appropriate for hot weather wear.

TO CLEAN MATTRESSES

If you haven't tried the vacuum cleaner on your mattresses, do it now. And form the year-round mattress-vacuuming habit, using either a small vacuum or the attachment of a large vacuum.

MASK TO CLEANSE THE PORES

Easiest To Prepare At Home

JUST ONE FRESH EGG

For cleansing the pores there are masks that help. The market is flooded with excellent commercially prepared ones, and, of course, there are home-made types which tend to cleanse the pores and tighten sagging muscles as well. An egg mask is the easiest of all to prepare and use.

Separate the yolk and white of a fresh egg and beat each lightly. After cleansing face and throat smooth on a layer of white, let it dry, and then apply a coat of yolk. Repeat in layers until all has been used. Leave it on for twenty minutes and then rinse off with lukewarm water.

SUMMER MAKE-UP

Sun Is Healthy By Dries The Skin

Sun brings health, but it brings dry skin, too, and the girl who is careful about her make-up must be careful about this. Use powder sparingly, but be generous with your skin food. An excellent idea during the hot weather is to give your face a thorough oil massage at least once a week. An equal part mixture of olive oil, castor oil, and almond oil is very effective.

Moulding Mature Figures

Special Swimming And Beach Suits

YOUTHFUL SILHOUETTE REGAINED

Beauty and the beach are now the concern of a Parisian corsetiere. Knowing full well the underlying reasons for youthful and smart silhouettes in street and evening clothes, she has, with characteristic ingenuity, designed swim, play and beach suits that incorporate clever uplift brassieres, and control bulges elsewhere.

Mature figures who have discovered that under a bathing suit the high, firm bust-line that foundation garments achieve becomes a flat, ungainly figure, will welcome this newest specialty of fashion that moulds them into bathing girls.

The brassiere is first fitted, by pinning, and moulded into the fashionable uplift that makes a large bust appear much smaller.

Then the suit, in material and colour of your choice, is draped over the uplifted bust line into a smart, youthful, up-to-the-minute fashion.

Besides the flattering uplift bust line of the toppers, the trunks of the suit are frequently designed to camouflage large hips.

For dressing up on summery afternoons dotted chiffon is quite the thing. Patricia Ellis, screen actress, shows us how charming the fashion can be in a white frock with blue dots. A hip-length jacket of the dress fabric has loose sleeves with tie-on cuffs, and a double pleated ruffle to edge the rever collar.

That's how I keep fresh

When you feel hot and tired after strenuous work or play take a bath to which you have added Scrubb's Ammonia. Scrubb's first soothes you, then fills you with fresh energy and vitality. Scrubb's conquers perspiration.

SCRUBB'S CLOUDY AMMONIA

FINGERTIP BEAUTY

Supreme Importance Of Nice Hands

HOME MANICURE

However much care you take with your face, you cannot look really attractive unless your hands are soft and well groomed.

The first essential is to keep your nails perfectly clean. Wash your hands in warm, soapy water to which a dash of softening borax has been added. Then remove any accumulated dirt from under the nails with a clean orange stick.

Never scrub your nails with too hard a brush, as this is liable to injure the cuticle and make it coarse.

If your nails are thin and pliable, cutting with a sharp pair of nail scissors is to be preferred to filing.

Very often, however, they are thick or brittle, in which case the filing method should always be used. When doing this, be careful to file always in an upward direction.

The next procedure is to remove the dead cuticle with a special cuticle remover. Then plunge the hands into warm water, and while they are still moist and soft, gently press back the cuticle to expose the half-moons.

Powder and cream polishes, though put to some extent in the shade by the introduction of enamels, are slowly returning to favour. The choice is entirely a matter of taste. Enamelling, of course is more quickly done.

VOGUE OF FABRIC FLOWERS

The handwriting on fashion's wall spells "flowers" in big letters this summer. They are all over the style scene in artificial trims running the size gamut from forget-me-nots to sunflowers, in fabrics ranging all the way from crepe paper to velvet, in huge or tiny printed figures on both cottons and silk crepes.

Make The Most Of Your Eyes!

Your eyes are your main feature; by their expression and appearance you are often judged. They are mirrors too of your internal condition. Your eyes should be bright and clear; if they are neither, then in all probability your liver is sluggish, you are constipated, and your food tract is clogged with poisonous waste matter.

To make the most of your eyes, therefore, avoid constipation in the pleasant, effective, non-habit-forming way, by taking an occasional dose of Pinkettes. Mildly laxative, these tiny pills correct constipation, even up the liver, aid digestion, keep the eyes clear and bright, the breath sweet, the skin free from blemishes; they also are of great help in relieving piles. Chemists everywhere sell Pinkettes.

FINE SKIN CREAM FOR TROPICS

May Easily Be Made At Home

TONIC EFFECTS

Sun and wind play havoc with the best of skins and many women find it difficult to obtain a cream that will combat the climate. Here is an inexpensive compound which can be made at home with little trouble. Take three heads of lettuce and the young tender leaves from three sticks of matured celery. Place a jar containing the wax and contents in hot water until the contents have melted. Add to in boiling water. Beat to a pulp and strain to extract the juice. To each three ounces of juice is to be added two ounces of white wax, two ounces of spermaceti, skin and six ounces of oil of sweet almonds, in the following manner. Place a jar containing the wax and contents in hot water until the contents have melted. Add to in boiling water. Beat to a pulp and strain to extract the juice. To each three ounces of juice is to be added two ounces of white wax, two ounces of spermaceti, skin

BRIDGE NOTES

A TRUMP END-PLAY

By Ely Culbertson

"The trumps didn't break, partner, so I had to go down one." How often have I heard that remark made by a declarer to the dummy, who has not watched the butchery which has gone on.

It is undoubtedly true that bad divisions in either a plain suit or the trump suit bring about the defeat of many otherwise makeable contracts. However, many times these bad divisions can be counteracted by careful play, at the conclusion of which a seemingly sure trump trick of the declarer's left-hand opponent vanishes into thin air.

On the hand below Mr. Benedict Jarmel of New York City fulfilled a four-heart contract despite the bad trump division by the use of a trump end play.

The bidding:
North East South West
1D 1S 2H Pass
4H Pass Pass Dbl.
Pass Pass Pass
In response to his partner's bid West opened the spade Ace, and when his partner played an intermediate card, continued with the suit, although a diamond shift might have been better. East won the Queen and, not realising that his partner held two probable trump tricks, decided a club shift was necessary. Frankly, I believe East's return of the seven of clubs was a very bad play and I doubt whether the contract would have been fulfilled without it.

Mr. Jarmel covered the lead of the club seven with the ten and West's Queen was covered by dummy's Ace.

The King of hearts was now played from dummy to test out the trump division, and after both players followed Mr. Jarmel quite correctly decided to abandon the suit, reasoning that West was almost certainly marked by the double with the three remaining trumps. Mr. Jarmel further decided, because of East's overcall that the diamond King was probably wrong. He therefore proceeded to run his club suit, returning to his own hand with the King and then taking the indicated finesse against West's nine. On the fourth club South's losing diamond was discarded and West had to helplessly follow suit.

The Ace of diamonds was now led from dummy and a second diamond trumped in South's hand. South now led his last spade, trumped with one of dummy's small hearts, and led another diamond, trumping with the heart nine in his own hand. West, of course, overtrumped, but now could do nothing but lead away from his heart Queen into the declarer's tenace.

The doubled contract was thus fulfilled, despite the bad division, by careful play, which reduced West's two apparent trump tricks to one.

INTERNATIONAL CAMP FOR BOYS

Summer Gathering At Tsingtao

HONG KONG REPRESENTED

Hong Kong is to be represented in the Fourth International Boys' Camp at Tsingtao this summer. Mr. Shum Cheuk-kwai, a student of Ying Wah College, was selected by the Chinese Y.M.C.A. to be the representative of Hong Kong, and Mr. Young Wah-chak, secretary of the Junior Division, Chinese Y.M.C.A., will lead the representatives of Hong Kong, Canton, Fochow and Amoy to the Camp aboard the China Navigation Steamship Canton, which sails this afternoon. Their friends gave them a big send-off by holding a dinner party at the Chinese Y.M.C.A., Kowloon Branch, on the eve of their departure.

This camp is for older boys of the Pacific region, which is to take place at Camp Swallow Island, Tsingtao, China, August 5-12, 1935. It is under the auspices of the World's Committee, Y.M.C.A.'s, Geneva, and the National Committee, Y.M.C.C.'s of China.

Objects Of The Camps

The first camp for older boys of the Pacific area was inaugurated in 1929. That year, more than 100 boys and leaders representing 13 countries met at Umen, Japan, for the First International Camp of the Pacific area. A second one was held in the Hawaiian Islands, at Honolulu, in 1931, and was followed by a third one in the Philippine Islands, at Los Bonos, in 1933.

The purpose of the camp is fourfold: to give these older boys of the Pacific area an opportunity to mingle in a happy Christian environment while forming new friendships; to share experiences, ideas, and ideals which will lead to a better understanding among the people of the Pacific region; to develop a keener sense of the unity of the world Y.M.C.A. movement; to create a deeper appreciation and realization of the Founder of Christianity as the Master of Life.

Beautiful Location

The location of the Camp is seven miles east of Tsingtao, one of the most beautiful summer resorts in Asia. The camp is on a promontory overlooking the Pacific and has an excellent sandy beach which affords splendid and safe swimming. Nearby are mountains and forests with beautiful temples and landscapes.

An "After Camp Tour" which will be under the direction of an experienced Y.M.C.A. secretary has been planned. This tour will visit different important centres, of both cultural and scenic interest, and will take two weeks, covering about 3,000 miles.

MISSION TO GREENLAND

Dr. Jean Baptiste Charcot, foremost explorer and geographer of France, set sail for Greenland recently on his 68th birthday, aboard the French research barque "Yvon Du Plessis" to chart polar currents and bring back a mission of four French scientists who have been studying Esquimo culture and civilisation.

WORRIED SON'S SUICIDE

Affected By Mother's Illness

The suicide of a young veterinary surgeon, who was worried because his mother was seriously ill, was investigated at a Camberwell inquest recently on Ronald Thomas Coville Prime, 29, of Alexandra-road, Upper Norwood.

His father, Ronald T. Prime, veterinary surgeon, said his son had been in practice with him, and in 1921 attempted to take his life. He had all his life been subject to fits of depression, and had been worried lately because his mother was critically ill.

Medical evidence showed that death was due to the effects of poison, and a verdict of suicide while of unsound mind was returned.

DRUG-SMOKING AMONG WOMEN

Detective Reveals West-End Traffic

SEAMAN'S STOCK OF INDIAN HEMP

London. An increase in the smoking of drugged cigarettes—particularly among white women in the West-end—was revealed in a prosecution at Marlborough-street Police-court last month. Max Fisher, SS, seaman, of Titchfield-street, W., pleaded guilty to a charge of having in his possession, not being an authorised person, a drug Indian hemp, at his address.

Det.-sgt. Keen said he went to Fisher's address. "I found three different packets containing this drug, and two hand-made cigarettes, which also contained the drug," said the officer. "There was a partly-smoked cigarette, which apparently he had just put out."

Sentenced Before.
The officer mentioned that on May 17 Fisher was sentenced to one day at that court for offering to supply hashish to a police officer.

"From my information this class of cigarette is being sold to white girls of a certain character in West End clubs," he said. "The authorities take a very serious view of this matter. This man has, I know, been visiting these clubs. He gets the drug from a man in the East End and I have followed him there, where he has purchased it."

Fisher denied he sold the cigarettes. He was sentenced to four months' hard labour.

SILVA'S RECREIO RINK UNBEATABLE?

DUNCAN'S ATTEMPT ON RECORD

(By "Skip")

THE weather conditions were a repetition of last week and though suitable from a playing point of view, the excessive heat interfered with pleasure to a certain extent.

One or two incidents of a very interesting nature took place, the outstanding probably being the surprising win of the Kowloon C.C. over the Police, who quite recently had brought the all-conquering march of the Recreio to an end. This made the victory established by the mainland team all the more meritorious.

Another incident that calls for mention was the supreme effort made by the gallant Kowloon Dock team to snatch victory from the Bowling Green. They only surrendered the points by the least possible margin—one shot. R. C. Wallace, the man who has thrilled almost every one who has had the pleasure of seeing him play, made a welcome return to the game and proved beyond all doubt that his hand has not lost its cunning so well did he execute some of the most difficult shots known to bowlers.

POSTPONED OPEN MATCHES

Corresponding Day Next Week

The seven Lawn Bowls Singles Championship and Pairs Championship games which were postponed yesterday Wednesday and Tuesday will be played off on the corresponding day next week. The games are:

TUESDAY
H. A. Alves v T. Armstrong (Kowloon C.C.)

WEDNESDAY
A. M. Holland v E. el Arculli (Civil Service)

F. Cullen v A. Hyde-Lay (Recreio)

Pairs
M. J. Medina and J. Cavanagh v S. Eccleshall and J. Shepherd (Bowling Green)

Singles
R. Duncan v A. Macfarlane (Recreio)

R. W. Bradbury v C. G. Silva (Taikoo)

W. K. Way v J. C. Brown (Civil Service)

DUNCAN TO MEET RANDALL

Craigengower Tournay Encounter To-day

What should prove to be quite an interesting and evenly contested game will be played this afternoon on the Craigengower rink when H. W. Randall (scr.) meets G. Duncan (—2) in the Second Round of the Club Handicap Singles competition.

G. Duncan, despite his handicap, should manage to emerge victorious. He has changed his style of delivery lately and a great improvement in his game is the result.

EXETER'S NEW CUSTODIAN

Arthur Davies, Exeter City's six-foot goal-keeper, has been signed on by Plymouth Argyle as understudy to Harry Cann. Davies, a native of Wallasey, has been five years with the Exeter club.

F. Cullen, of Kowloon Docks, only just failed to give his team victory last Saturday when he was beaten on the last head by J. C. Brown.

INTRA-CLUB COMPETITIONS AT STANDSTILL

Most Matches Held Up By Weather

WATERTON BEATS FARRELL

Only three Clubs have made any progress during the week with their various competitions, the Recreio, Kowloon Bowling Green and Craigengower.

The following are the results to date:

RECREIO

Singles Championship (Second Round)
F. X. Silva v P. A. Yvanovich, H. A. Alves v J. Noronha; L. Silva v either B. Basso, E. L. Basso or Dr. Bastos; F. J. Soares v L. A. Gutierrez.

KOWLOON B.G.C.
Vice-President's (Second Round)
D. W. Waterton beat P. T. Farrell and now meets V. Petherick; W. S. Drake beat W. Gill and now meets T. Armstrong.

Handicap Pairs (Second Round)
H. Nish and L. Guy (—6) beat W. Hyde and A. Hyde-Lay (—5); G. Hamilton and J. G. Meyer (—4) beat V. Petherick and J. Fraser (—2); J. C. Brown and W. Gill (scr.) beat B. Rogers and W. Gill (scr.).

CRAIGENGOWER
In the Third Round of the Club Championship W. V. Field beat B. W. Bradbury by 21 shots to 15; R. F. Lux beat L. C. R. Souza by 21 shots to 6.

BRENTFORD'S NEW PLAYER
Brentford have secured the transfer of Joe Wilson, centre-half, of Southern United, at a substantial fee. Wilson has been with Southend four seasons and previously had one season with Newcastle United.

PLADNER RECOGNISED
Emile Pladner, the French champion, has been recognised by the International Boxing Union as the lightweight champion of Europe.

BOWLS LEADERS EXPECTED TO WIN TO-MORROW

KEEN RACE FOR 1935 TITLE

BOWLING GREEN VIRTUAL CHAMPIONS

(By "Skip")

Craigengower "A" should have no great problem this week-end, as everything indicates another success for them. They entertain the Indian R.C. and as they subside the same combination on the Indians' green in May there is every reason to believe that they will repeat the feat to-morrow.

The Bowling Green, profiting from their experience of last week, when they were taught a lesson by the Kowloon Shipbuilders, are due to meet the much improved Civil Service C.C. The home team, having tasted the sweetness of victory, are quite sure they can set the necessary pace to overcome their visitors, but, candidly, I have my doubts—the Kowloon side are a better balanced twelve, and on form should just pull through.

It is expected that the K. C. C. will add another two points to their total. Hyde-Lay is in much better trim now, and is supported by three able and enterprising tacticians. The placing of Craig at No. 3 was profitable, immediately. Nevertheless, their visitors are dangerous raiders, and must be treated with a full made of respect. Kowloon Docks, who will journey to Cor's Road on an errand which is neither charitable nor hopeless, will offer the K. C. C. just about the hardest 21 heads they have as yet participated in. This should be the best match of the day.

Recreio Should Win

The Portuguese have Craigengower "B" as their guests, and are almost sure to maintain their position in the League table. They cannot afford to make any mistakes now if they intend to wrest the coveted honour of the championship from Craigengower "A".

It is almost certain that the Kowloon Bowling Green will defeat Craigengower "A" at Austin Road when they meet in August, and the premier Club is not by any means out of the running itself. A most exciting finish to the League race is now anticipated.

C. G. Silva, J. E. Noronha, and H. A. Alves are under the observation of those interested in the Colony's welfare where—hawn bowls is concerned, and in all probability will both read and hear more concerning this.

The Junior Division

The Bowling Green club got over the Taikoo hurdle much easier than expected, and I don't think it possible for any team to beat them again this year. Their record demands that they be accepted as the Junior Champions for 1935.

Wallace was playing wonderful bowls in this match, and it is hoped he will turn out regularly; the game should not be deprived of such a brilliant exponent. The Bowling Green meet the Civil Service to-morrow and should win.

SOVIET SPORT MARATHON NEXT MONTH

Moscow, July 16—August of this year will witness the first Soviet sport marathon races which will be held to determine the champions of the U.S.S.R.

P. T. Farrell, above, was one of the first members of the Taikoo Dock Recreation Club.

FARRELL ONE OF FIRST MEMBERS OF TAIKOO CLUB

Wins Club's First Championship

TWICE GAINS INTERPORT RECOGNITION

Though now playing as well as ever at No. 1 for the Kowloon Bowling Green Club, P. T. Farrell's bowls record dates back to 1907 when the Taikoo bowls team came into being. At this time there was no green, but the tennis courts filled a long-felt want and from this unpretentious commencement a bowling club was founded that has produced some of the finest bowlers in the Colony.

Farrell won the first competition the club held—the Singles Championship—in 1908. He stayed with the team for several years and was playing for them when they won the League Championship for the first time.

Joining the Kowloon B.G.C. in 1919, he soon gained his place in that team and was again with the side that had the honour of winning the league. A short time afterwards he transferred his colours to the Kowloon C.C. and it began to look as if Farrell was having more than usual influence on the side, for during the two years he played for the cricketers they carried off league honours.

President of K.B.G.C.

He was elected President of the Kowloon B.G.C. in 1925 and the same year skipped the Club rink against a strong Shanghai quartette, and emerged victorious!

Farrell has twice represented Hong Kong in Interports, the first occasion being in 1920 when he was also elected captain of the team. The Shanghai bowlers proved too good for the Hong Kong four in that year and the local four were beaten by the small margin of two shots. In 1926 Farrell was again selected to represent the Colony, this time against Hankow.

In addition he has won various Club competitions and was in the last four in the Colony Singles Championship in 1924—"Skip."

CRAIGENGOWER RINK GAMES

Three Arranged For Sunday

Next Sunday three games in the Second Round of the Craigengower C.C. Rinks Championship, which have already been postponed twice owing to inclement weather, will be decided, provided the rain does not again interfere.

The games are:

D. K. Khazra v Abbas, S. Alderman and W. V. Field (skip) v Dr. Karanjia; W. T. Brightman, L. C. E. Souza and B. W. Bradbury (skip) v H. I. Fox, W. Phelps, A. E. Costas and D. Emmahm (skip) v J. P. Pan, H. W. Randall, W. B. Munkett and A. S. Gomes (skip); J. W. Lacerda, R. Wood, A. A. Basso, and H. Boer (skip) v J. H. Soares, Dr. Fernando, J. S. Landoit and B. Basso (skip).

OMAR ALONE HOLDS DISTINCTION

SHERIFF CREEPS UP ON CHALMERS

A. H. BASTO STILL UNDEFEATED

THE crushing defeat of the Police R.C. by the Kowloon C.C. last Saturday resulted in J. Shepherd losing his 100 per cent. premier league skips record, thus leaving U. M. Omar the only skip with this honour.

J. Chalmers still holds the premier position in the junior league, although he suffered his first defeat last week. G. H. Sherriff was successful and is now only one point behind the leader. A. H. Basto retained his 100 per cent. record, while T. Cair recorded his first win.

Two new skips made their debut in the junior division, E. Kern and R. Wallace, the former inauspiciously but the latter with success.

The following are the complete records of every skip for the 1935 season:

KING SEES HIS COLT WIN

Crowd's Great Cheer

The King was present at Newmarket races yesterday, when his colt, Bonnie Dundee, won the Botolph Claydon Stakes. It was his Majesty's second racing success of the season.

When it was seen that Bonnie Dundee was certain to win, hats were thrown in the air, and there was tremendous cheering.

Cheering was renewed when the King walked to the paddock to see his colt unsaddled. He chatted with the Earl of Derby and several other members of the Jockey Club, to whom he expressed his pleasure at the success of his horse.

HELEN WILLS-MOODY NOT FOR WIGHTMAN CUP

New York, To-day.—Mrs. Wills-Moody, Wimbledon champion on seven occasions, has decided not to play in the Wightman Cup matches against the British ladies at Forest Hills next month.—Reuter.

It was also decided that all games shall be decided over seven innings and that any game abandoned after five innings, through any cause whatsoever, shall be considered as have been played to the end and the result stand.

The umpires were to be the sole judges as to the suitability of the ground and weather conditions and postponed games will be played at the end of the season only if they have a bearing on the final positions of the league.

The following is the full fixture list.

TEST CAPTAIN'S RUSE

Message With Drinks

UNCERTAIN WHEN TO DECLARE

Herbert F. Wade, who led the South Africans to their first Test victory, by 157 runs, on an English cricket field, at Lord's, has revealed a vital secret of the match.

"My problem was to know when to declare our second innings closed, and so allow Balaskas to bowl again," he said.

"The pitch was easy after the rain, although I knew that it would become more difficult than ever—bushy when."

"So I sent out Viljoen, our twelfth man, with drinks for Mitchell and Langton, who were batting. Nobody knew it, but he carried a message from me."

"If the fitting moment had arrived they were to start hitting. They did start hitting—and the rest you know."

"I am very proud of our victory, but we were lucky to win the toss."

He stuck by Braddock when the pickings were lean, and now manager Joe Gould is getting paid for his loyalty. The 44-year-old former lightweight, who made a dockhand into a champion, has always been in the fight game, but until now never had a champion.

SWIMMING INTERPORT

Northerners Worried Over Half Mile

ARRANGEMENTS IN HAND

Shanghai, July 23.
Two items of major importance were discussed at the meeting of the Shanghai Amateur Swimming Association held at the Rowing Club last Thursday evening; the first was the consideration of Hong Kong's suggested dates of September 19, 20 and 21 for the interport swimming contest, which it is understood will probably receive the acceptance of the S.A.S.A., while the second affects the three principal local galas as it deals with the allocation of Shanghai championship events and the appointment of officials.

OUTMANOEUVRED BY NEWCOMER

BRITISH ACE VERY TIRED LONG BEORE END

AMERICAN'S MERCILESS PRESSURE

(By A. WALLIS MYERS)

MAJOR thrills, as one had anticipated, came to Wimbledon on the first day of the second week. Every gallery court was packed to overflowing; the cheers were rolling all through an enervating day.

Perry, Von Cramm, Crawford and Budge are the men's singles semi-finalists—survivors from four different countries. England has kept Perry, its champion, but has lost Austin, whose scalp was gallantly captured by a newcomer to Wimbledon—Donald Budge, a youth of 19, cradled into lawn tennis like W. M. Johnston, on the public parks of San Francisco.

This was an unexpected prize for America, balancing the loss of Sydney Wood, who was beaten after five sets by J. H. Crawford, champion of Australia.

In turn this Australian success, like that of America, was the Commonwealth's consolation for McGrath's dismissal at the hands of Von Cramm. Germany placed a player in the semi-final for the first time since Froitzheim's dramatic bid for the title on the eve of the war.

Perry's match with Menzel, who had fished two sets from him last year, was all over after a hectic first set. Thanks to his service, then at its freshest, the Czech was in a point of gaining it.

Service Broken Up
Once his service was broken through in the fifteenth game his principal weapon was blunted, and Perry, playing brilliant tennis all round the court, had his man gasping for air.

For as soon as Perry indicated that he had a reply of Menzel's service—could, in fact, return it with maximum speed and length—the relative equipment of the two men was revealed. In the last two sets, the middle having been solved, Menzel came to the net only to have his wings scorched.

Austin's Conqueror
Once more Austin has found an American conqueror at Wimbledon. Vines claimed him in 1932 and Frank Shields last year (though the result was reversed in the Davis Cup), and now Donald Budge, the latest recruit to America's forces, has knocked him out in the fifth round—a bad stroke for England, but an achievement of outstanding merit for the 19-year-old novice.

It was accomplished in four sets after a start which did not look propitious for the young Californian's cause. Austin took the first set from 3, penetrating the enemy's service three times. He appeared to have a happy counter to Budge's backhand drive, and he rendered it less effective by aiming down the centre and preventing an angle reply. Neat volleys often stowed the ball away.

"It seems ridiculous that the men who attract the crowds should gain such small benefit," J. H. Taylor, five times Open Champion, replies to the criticism with:

"Tell Joe that is a pretty tame excuse. The Americans are not coming over now because the championship is not so easy to win. We had plenty of American entrants when they knew they had a good chance of lifting the Cup."

Henry Cotton also disagrees with Kirkwood.
"The prize list has been increased, not decreased," he says, "but an American victory is less likely. That is why Americans are not interested."

BIRKIE WINS DECISION IN HAVANA

Havana, July 4.—Hans Birkie of Germany, weighing in at 194 pounds, "spotted" Isidor Gastanaga of Spain thirteen pounds, but experienced little difficulty in winning a decision from the latter here to-day. Birkie took a majority of the ten rounds, and the judges' decision was unanimous.—United Press.

PORTSMOUTH TRANSFERS

Portsmouth F.C. have secured the transfers of Raymond O'Connor, aged 21, a right half-back from Jarrow, and Ambrose Brown, aged 22, inside-left or centre-forward, from Chesterfield.

Loretta Young and Cary Grant are featured in "Born to Be Bad" which will be screened at the King's Theatre to-day.

CLAUDE RAINS BRILLIANT IN "EDWIN DROOD" DRAMA

"THE GOOD FAIRY" DELIGHTFUL
WITH MARGARET SULLAVAN

"THE AGE OF INDISCRETION" GIVES CHANCES TO
PAUL LUKAS AND MAY ROBSON

THE unusual quality which is Claude Rains' own is here in "The Mystery of Edwin Drood" in repellant fascination. I shall never forget the performances given us by this British actor in "Crime Without Passion" and "The Man Who Reclaimed His Head," and once again the glittering eye and twisted white face are his, to portray a guilty soul in torment. This is the unfinished story by Dickens and I do not know who is responsible for this ending; but the scenario writer has made it all very interesting.

Mr. Rains is the organist addicted to opium, while David Manners is his nephew who is engaged to Heather Angel, until Douglas Montgomery appears on the scene from Ceylon and captures her heart. Then Mr. Manners disappears and Montgomery sets about to solve the mystery.

It makes a fairly good mystery thriller with sound acting and some real old-fashioned melodramatic situations.

Claud Rains alone is worth seeing and might be said to dominate the picture, although Douglas Montgomery lends excellent support. (King's).

"Carnival"

Little Dickie Walters is another of the infant prodigies and the Director has wisely allowed him to be his perfect natural self.

Here is life in a carnival surrounded by continual noise, bearded ladies, midgets, monsters and all the freaks that make up a show of this kind.

The plot is principally concerned with the trials and tribulations suffered by hero Lee Tracy to keep his small son out of the clutches of the welfare society.

Florence Rice is attractive, but Sally Eilers makes a welcome return to the screen, as the girl who wins the happiness of caring for the adorable infant when Lee Tracy finally comes to his right senses. Jimmy Durante is really amusing as "Fingers," a gentleman pickpocket.

Can be placed under the heading of a satisfactory evening at the Queen's.

"The Age of Indiscretion"

This is the old divorce question all over again, and the highlight of the film is the courtroom scene where the couple (Paul Lukas and Edna Vinson) battle for the custody of their son—perfectly played by little David Jack Holt. The boy might be candidly stated to "steal" the picture, but the warmed-over situations and familiar story of parental love is so well acted by the whole cast, that the result is good sentimental entertainment.

Madge Evans, the secretary who loves the hero secretly, is adequate, and May Robson finds congenial outlet for her usual vigorous acting, especially in her scenes with the boy.

Helen Vinson is suitably unsympathetic as the wife who tires of humdrum life with her publisher husband and seeks one of enjoyment with husband No. 2, Ralph Forbes. Well worth seeing. (Queen's).

"Murder in the Fleet"

The new M.G.M. "find," Robert Taylor, shares the featuring with Jean Parker in this melodrama, with Una Merkel, Mary Doran and two comedians, Ted Healey and Nat Pendleton, giving the best performances in the picture.

More of this later. Coming to the Queen's.

"The Good Fairy"

Margaret Sullivan, stage star, has given us three good pictures, "Only Yesterday," "Little Man, What Now?" and "The Good Fairy." She is a refreshingly sincere actress, unlike any other on the screen.

There is a fairy-tale tone to this story from the play by the Hungarian playwright Ferenc Molnar, with clever direction by William Wyler. (It is interesting to note that throughout the making of this film the star and the director quarrelled, but surprised everyone by one day, flying to Yuma, Arizona, and marrying).

We see our heroine in the drab surroundings of an orphan asylum in Budapest, then finding herself in a world where, in a very brief time, she has exciting and complicated experiences with several types of men; cheap, romantic Cesar Romero, protective waiter Reginald Owen, and kindly, wealthy, amorous Frank Morgan, not forgetting the man whose name she picks upon as her "husband" in the telephone book—Herbert Marshall.

As in "The Affairs of Cellini," Frank Morgan almost steals the picture, but the charm of Miss Sullivan and the splendid support from Herbert Marshall, Reginald Owen, Beulah Bondi, Alan Hale and others make this one of the really worth-while pictures you would be foolish to miss. (King's).

"We Live Again"

There is a treat in store for the picture fans when Tolstoy's "Resurrection," re-titled "We Live Again," comes to the King's.

The role of "Katusha" is ideally suited to the Russian star Anna Sten, whose beauty and ability are given every chance, and only equalled by the magnificent performance as "Prince Dimitri" of Fredric March.

C. Andrey Smith, Jessie Ralph, Ethel Griffies, Sam Jaffe, are a few among a distinguished cast. Put this on your "must-see" list. (King's).

"The Flame Within"

Edmund Goulding wrote and directed this outstanding picture. Outstanding for at least three performances—those of Anne Harding, Maureen O'Sullivan and the new young South African actor Louis Hayward.

Herbert Marshall is convincing as a doctor; but the other three make this picture one of the best from M. G. M. this year.

By Diane

It is a sombre, but thought-compelling study of four lives. One of the best of its kind. Don't miss it. Coming to the Queen's.

The Majestic

Rudy Vallee, Alice Faye and a bevy of beauties in "George White's Scandals" are on a second visit to this popular Kowloon Theatre. A typical George White vehicle with tuneful melodies, clever dance routines, some humour and a story that does not mean a thing.

Followed by "Caravan," where the now-famous Charles Boyer enacts the role of a gypsy violinist and Loretta Young makes a wilful lovely "Countess" settings laid amidst the grape season in Hungary are most colourful, and Phillips Holmes makes a handsome lover.

Not to be missed. Boyer is an actor you can't forget and the song numbers are catchy.

The Dickens masterpiece, "David Copperfield," follows, with the long cast of names comprising Edna May Oliver, W. C. Fields, Freddy Bartholomew, Jessie Ralph, Lewis Stone, Frank Lawton, Elizabeth Allan, Roland Young and crowds more. An episodic film that will no doubt please the lovers of Dickens' works. (Majestic).

Oriental

"The Gay Bride" with Carole Lombard and Chester Morris, is a picture I can recommend.

Carole Lombard will surprise you as a gold-digger. Nat Pendleton, as usual, gives splendid support. Exciting drama mixed with plenty of comedy.

Followed by Eddie Cantor in "Kid Millions." Just another of the same sort of film to which Eddie has accustomed us. Line-light, full upon star most of the Claude Rains, Heather Angel and Douglas Montgomery are in "The Mystery of Edwin Drood," the Universal picture which will be shown at the King's Theatre next Sunday.

Adrienne Ames, Gilbert Roland, and Mona Barrie are seen here in Fox Film's latest picture, "Ladies Love Danger," which commences at the King's Theatre next week.

Mona Barrie and Gilbert Roland are the two leading stars in Fox Film's "Ladies Love Danger," a picture combining romance and mystery, which will be shown at the King's Theatre next Tuesday.

SHORT SHOTS

MR. and Mrs. Robert Montgomery are in London for two weeks prior to a motor tour through France and Italy, and then another week in London. Walter Huston has also arrived there to enact the role of Cecil Rhodes in the Gaumont-British picture of the life story of the famous man.

Louis Hayward, the South African actor who scored so heavily in his first Hollywood picture, "The Flame Within," has been chosen as leading man for the come-back picture of Ruth Chatterton.

"Glamorous Nights," the play with Mary Ellis and Iver Novello (the author) now running at Drury Lane, has been bought for the screen by Paramount.

M.G.M. are going to re-make Fritz's "Rose Marie" with, most likely, Grace Moore and Nelson Eddy in the leading roles. Remember Joan Crawford, House Peters (the South African) and James Murray in the silent version?

Sam Goldwyn has signed Edward G. Robinson to play opposite Miriam Hopkins in "Barbary Coast." Brian Aherne will be with Joan Crawford in "Glicker," directed by "Woody" van Dyke, so James Cagney may play D'Artagnan in "The Three Musketeers" if Aherne is not ready for the production. Barbara Stanwyck has signed a long-term contract with R.K.O.

Fox have bought the rights of "Poor Little Rich Girl" from Mary Pickford for $20,000, and the miracle child Shirley Temple will be the star.

Maurice Chevalier has been signed by Topline Productions to play the lead in the late W. J. Locke's story "The Beloved Vagabond."

Anna Sten and her husband, Dr. Frenke are on holiday in Paris; then she returns to her new M.G.M. contract. Bruce Cabot, too, has been given a contract by this studio, and will be groomed to play parts similar to Clark Gable's. By the bye it was the first Mrs. Gable who taught Cabot his dramatic work.

Ramon Novarro will definitely enact the leading role in "A Royal

Jimmie Durante (above), Sally Eilers (centre), and Lee Tracy (below) are starring in "Carnival" which is now showing at the Queen's Theatre.

Exchange" ("All the King's Horses" on the screen) on the London stage, commencing in September.

Binnie Barnes, easily the cleverest of the young British actresses in Hollywood, after finishing the role of "Lillian Russell" in "The Life of Diamond Jim Brady" has been signed by M.G.M. to be leading lady opposite William Powell in "The Black Chamber."

Alice Faye and Jimmy Dunne will be together again in "Police Parade."

Bing Crosby, Lawrence Tibbett, Charles Starrett and Richard Dix are all the proud fathers of twin sons.

Clifton Webb, the Broadway dancer, will run a close race with Fred Astaire for popularity when he makes his first screen appearance in the M.G.M. production of "Broadway Melody."

After his triumphant appearance in three films, Tullio Carminati has gone to London for a holiday; then later will appear on the stage there. It is hoped he is not too long absent from the picture—DIANE.

Complications

There can be no doubt that the world which reads and thinks about public questions at all has begun to think very intensely about war, and in a new way. Let it be granted that twenty years ago nobody asked any questions about much in public policy that is eagerly discussed to-day; there was a general inclination to leave to Ambassadors and statesmen business which was supposed to be too delicate for the layman to understand; and it was taken for granted that the code of private morals did not apply to foreign policy. The recent "National Declaration" presented to the Prime Minister, showing the views of some millions of quiet people "living in humble homes" is evidence of a new attitude in England; the discussions in the French papers show that there also there is a new outlook; the intervention of the American Secretary of State is a "foreign entanglement" with a vengeance; and the same thing may be said of any of the other remnant of civilised nations where there is still a free Press and a genuine public opinion. There is not yet any very decided indication along what lines the new current will set, but it is clear that there is a demand for much more open consultation and for policy to follow definite principles as regards the right to make war, the regulation of the means to wage it, and the terms that may rightfully be imposed.

Signor Mussolini said the other day that he intended to follow the example of his critics, who in the course of building up an empire ignored the opinion of the rest of the world. This was aimed at England, and the reference was to the South African War. It would be possible to argue that the circumstances were different. The experiment of having several jurisdictions in the same natural area had proved unworkable, and the upshot of the whole deplorable quarrel was to place unified control in the hands of the majority of the residents who were qualified to use a vote. But the real answer would be that that war was declared thirty-six years ago; that in the meantime events have occurred which have changed men's thoughts; and that there is now an international machinery that deserves a fair trial; that there is a general feeling that until this machinery has been tried and failed any army that invades another State is "outlawed." The implication of the American Government's permission to American officers to fight on the Abyssinian side is that an Italian Army invading Abyssinia would not be able to claim the ordinary rights and courtesies accorded to belligerents by the recognised code of international law. It is in accordance with the Kellogg Pact, which Italy has herself signed, but it has far more significance than would appear at a first glance. The importance of the act is that it recognises that making war is itself a public crime, as was explained by Mr. Shea at the Rotary Club. There is no need to wait for any League action, though there is nothing to prevent the League dealing with the dispute in its own way. If the League should give a verdict in favour of Italy, there would be nothing to prevent all "sanctions" being withdrawn. It is well that this new principle should be brought to public attention by some definite action; for it is clear that the masses are not likely to read enough to grasp the new law; and it is deplorable that the cool defiance by Japan, and complete escape from any form of penalty, created a general impression that the whole of the new code of national conduct was, as even Sir Austen Chamberlain has admitted he thought it was, "a mere dream."

It is not that the question is prejudged. There is no claim on the part of England or of the United States merely to decide that one side is in the wrong. The claim is that before fighting begins there must be enquiry and discussion such as will give them a fair opportunity of knowing the facts and forming an opinion as to the justice of the claims and counterclaims. Had Il Duce taken the precaution of following this procedure before he sent his hundred thousand men out to Massawa it would have been easier; but the delay was due to giving the parties concerned an opportunity for negotiation. If time is now short and decisive action has to be taken at short notice that is very largely his own doing in refusing to submit his case to arbitration. It is a pity that any appearance of antagonism should be inevitable; but those who have followed post-war affairs most closely know that

CULINARY AEROBATICS

Recruits continue to roll up in England for the "Air" Force. Nobody, however, is anxious to become a cook, although the "R.A.F. Manual of Cookery" explains the art of the kitchen with scientific precision.

There, for example, is not merely a recipe for "treacle pudding," but proof that under many other names it can be as good.

Use 7lb of marmalade and call it "Golden Pudding."

Or use 10lb dates and a nutmeg and call it "Date Pudding."

Or use the grated rind and juice of eight lemons and call it "Lemon Pudding."

Or use the grated rind and juice of eight oranges and call it "Orange Pudding."

In this way the "golden pudding" of to-day easily loops the loop into the "lemon pudd" of to-morrow.

QUEERING THE FITCH

Some good stories of the little ways of great art dealers are told by Lady Mendil in her reminiscences, published last month under the title of "After All."

One of them is about the Belvoir tapestries, which some 25 years ago the Duke and Duchess of Rutland thought of selling when the late Mr. J. P. Morgan was known to be "in the market." They sent for a very well-known London dealer to value them. He came and was enraptured. "Ah, Duchess," he said, "there is nothing like them in the world. I wish I could buy them myself. I have so many I cannot buy any more. Don't let them go cheaply. They are worth $1,000,000 at least."

In due course Mr. Morgan came to stay at Belvoir. When he was told the price of the tapestries he made no reply.

Later the Duke and Duchess discovered that this had intentionally been made prohibitive in order to let the big dealers clear out their own stocks.

As Miss Elsie de Wolfe, decorator at Queen Victoria's Court, afterwards actress and interior decorator, Lady Mendil has seen much of life in London, New York, and Paris. She now lives in Paris, where her husband, Sir Charles Mendil, is Press Attaché at the British Embassy.

Wagnerian Music
Madge: "Why do you prefer Wagner?"
Marjorie: "Because he composes about the only kind of music one can hear above the conversation."

Under Control
"I suppose you have trouble keeping this high-powered car of yours under control?"
"Yes, the collector from the finance company gets hard to handle at times."

A Civic Asset
"This lovely sheet of water must be a great asset for the town," said the visitor.
"Do you people get much good out of it?"

"We certainly do," replied the native. "Last winter we got an appropriation to deepen it. That came under the rivers and harbours bill. This spring we got another appropriation to drain it. That will come under the mosquito-control act. We now have hopes to get a third appropriation to plant trees on it to keep down the dust."

THE NATURE OF LIFE— AGE-OLD PROBLEM REVIVED

INTERESTING EXPERIMENTS FROM AMERICA

(By Prof. D. F. Fraser-Harris)

SENSATIONAL news comes from New York that an apparatus has been perfected whereby organs from a dead body can be kept alive not for a few hours but for days.

The inventors are Dr. Alexis Carrel, of the Rockefeller Institute of Medical Research, and Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh, the aviator.

Many years ago the late Professor Ernest Starling, of University College, London, designed an apparatus for keeping alive the heart and lungs of a dead cat. This method should not be confused with a quite different one, namely that of Professor O. S. Gibbs, a Leicester man, now of Georgetown University, Washington, where the heart of a cat was replaced by a rubber bag which for some hours maintained an artificial circulation through the still living animal.

Heart Beating

Physiologists have, of course, known for a long time that such an organ as the heart of a cold-blooded animal could beat for many hours after the death of the animal that owned it.

Fishermen and sportsmen know that the heart of such a cold-blooded animal as the shark, for instance, will beat for many hours after the shark as a whole is dead. The hearts of snakes, vipers, and reptiles such as tortoises will beat strongly long after their owners are no more. One of the simplest experiments in the physiological laboratory is to kill a frog, cut out its heart, and feed that heart with sheep's blood, when we can keep it alive and actively beating for quite 24 hours.

But this life after the death of the owner of an organ is true of other organs than the heart, only it is comparatively easy to tell when a heart is alive because it is beating.

Miss Hatsuke Kato was this morning fined $10 by Mr. Q. A. A. Macfadyen at the Central Police Court for entering the Colony without a valid passport.

Chan Tai Cheuk, aged 36, who was banished for five years in February last, was this morning sentenced to four months' hard labour by Mr. Q. A. A. Macfadyen at the Central Police Court for breach of the Deportation Ordinance.

Wong Lee, a coolie, was this morning sentenced to six months' hard labour by Mr. Q. A. A. Macfadyen at the Central Police Court for the theft of a handbag, containing $3.70, from the person of So Yik Chan, a married woman at Des Voeux Road Central yesterday.

An expulsion order was this morning made by Mr. Q. A. A. Macfadyen at the Central Police Court against Noor Mahamed, an Indian, who was charged before him with entering the Colony without a valid passport.

cause we can see it beating. It is not nearly so easy to be sure about, say, the liver, because we cannot see it doing anything.

The "Survivors"

Physiologists, however, know that the liver can live for many hours after the animal that owned it is dead, for if the liver is supplied with pure oxygenated blood, it will continue to do in a glass vessel what it did in the body of the animal—namely, secrete some bile, which is one of its many functions.

Organs which after the death of the body go on doing what they have always done are called "surviving" organs.

Now the trouble in the past has been that this post-mortem life could not be exhibited indefinitely because the isolated organ became invaded by bacteria whose poisons ultimately killed it.

What the American biologists have discovered is a method of preventing these ever-present germs of putrefaction from gaining access to the organ and finally killing it. This is a triumph of aseptic technique, for everything—blood, air, instruments, apparatus—must all be germless.

Into this "Chamber of Life" no micro-organisms enter, and hence in that sterile chamber nothing is present to compromise the vitality of the surviving organ. This is what is new, for we have long known that by profusing arterial blood through an excised organ or limb the organ or limb would live as truly as when these were part and parcel of the now dead organism.

Ancient Problem

The American apparatus must be very efficient, for we are told that in one experiment the thyroid gland of some mammal has lived for twenty days after the death of the animal that owned it.

Nerves and arteries, we have long known, can live many days post-mortem, and even the brain, that most sensitive mass of nerve-cells, by far the most vulnerable in the body, has been kept alive long enough for the physiologists to satisfy themselves that it was still alive.

The theoretical implications of this "Chamber of Life" are extremely interesting, because there is no valid reason why a surviving brain, for instance, should not retain its consciousness since it is being supplied with plenty of pure blood under sufficient pressure.

In some respects the "Chamber of Life" brings us nearer to the comprehension of the physical conditions necessary to maintain local life, but it cannot be said to help us to solve the age-long problem of the nature of life itself.

RETIREMENT OF WELL-KNOWN SEA CAPTAIN

MASTER OF S.S.
SAALE
CAPTAIN CARL BRANDT

After a lifetime at sea, a great part of which has been spent in Far Eastern waters, Captain Carl Brandt of the Norddeutscher Lloyd Line's s.s. Saale, which arrived here yesterday from Manila, is making his last trip, as he is retiring when the vessel arrives back in Germany.

Born in Bremen, Captain Brandt went to sea at the age of 14 and has sailed round the globe for the past 45 years.

He started his career in sailing ships and went four times round the world in them. He has only been involved in a collision once, and this occurred when he was an able seaman on a Canadian windjammer named the Lake Ontario. Proceeding up the English Channel through one of the dense fogs that are so prevalent in that part of the world, the Lake Ontario came into collision with a 10,000 ton steamer, which was so badly holed as a result that she sank in less than 10 minutes with a loss of four lives. All the survivors were picked up by the windjammer and conveyed safely to port.

Joins The N. D. L.

After several years in sailing ships Captain Brandt left the sea for a short spell and studied for his first mate's ticket. On securing this he returned to a windjammer as second officer. He left the sea again for his Master's ticket and after sailing as skipper for a short time he turned his thoughts to steamships and joined the N. D. L. as fourth officer of the old Prince Hendrik and sailed for Shanghai.

Captain Brandt has made a host of friends during his voyaging out here and has grown to like the East very much. When the N.D.L. started a passenger and freight service from Singapore to Bangkok, Captain Brandt was given command of the s.s. Dell.

War Service In North Sea

When war was declared in 1914 he offered his services to his country and was made a commander of one of the famous German patrol boats in the dangerous North Sea. He served throughout the war in this capacity and after the armistice once more associated himself with the N.D.L., being appointed to the m.v. Bremerhaven, which is still running regularly to the East.

Captain Brandt has a wife and two children, a boy and a girl, but so far the boy, who is only 17 years of age, has shown no inclination to follow in the footsteps of his father.

CHINESE ART TREASURES

Widespread Interest
In London

"TIMES" MAKES COMMENT

London, To-day. The Suffolk's cargo from Cathay appeals to the imagination of the press, much to the advantage of the publicity side of the coming exhibition.

The Times remarks that there is small doubt that the beauty of the exhibits will justify more than all the excitement the arrival has aroused. The exhibition comes at a good moment, since gradually, thanks to Mr. Lawrence Binyon and other students, the general public has recently been much educated with regard to the greatness of Chinese art.

The Chinese artist loves and reverences the world and does not, like some younger Occidentals, hate and fear it and wreak upon it his need for self-assertion against something greater than himself. It would be amusing if Western art catches another attack of Chiniserie in the form it most needs. These 38 boxes may let loose some strange and fateful powers. —Reuter.

LOCAL OFFICIAL INCIDENT RETIREES

Presentation To Capt.
J. Hosford
PROCEEDING HOME TO-MORROW

The friends and colleagues of Capt. J. Hosford, of the Public Works Department, gathered at the offices of the P.W.D. this morning to present him with a token of their esteem and regard on his retirement on pension.

Mr. W. J. Anderson, Superintendent of Accounts and Stores, in making the presentation, said:

"Although you will continue to be an officer of this Department for some months to come, your active participation in our labours will cease from to-day, and for this reason we, your colleagues and friends, have assembled this morning to mark the occasion worthy of the esteem in which you are held."

Service To Crown

"You have devoted practically the whole of your life to the service of the Crown in various parts of the Empire. You enlisted in His Majesty's Forces in 1892. You served through the South African War, winning the Queen's Medal with four clasps and the King's Medal with two clasps, and were also mentioned in Despatches. You were wounded at Colenso and Spion Kop."

"In the Great War you served in several theatres and were present as an officer of the Royal Dublin Fusiliers at the first landing at Gallipoli. I have no doubt if you wished to speak you could give us a vivid account of that famous day, which was one of the most eventful in the history of the war. You were one of the few officers of your battalion who lived through that dreadful morning and the only survivor of the landing party in your boat. For your services in the Great War you were mentioned in Despatches and received the 1914/15 Star, and the General Service and Victory Medals. You retired at the end of the War with the rank of Staff Captain."

Valuable Officer

"In 1926 you joined the service of this Government and have since remained in the Accounts and Stores Office of the Public Works Department. You have now reached the age for retirement and this Department is losing a valuable officer who is held in the highest esteem by his colleagues."

"We hope that you will enjoy good health and happiness during the years of your retirement, and I have much pleasure in presenting this token of esteem which has been subscribed by your friends and colleagues."

Mr. Anderson then presented Captain Hosford with a valuable Aneroid Barometer, fitted with a silver plate suitably engraved.

Captain Hosford, in replying, thanked his friends for the gift, which he would always treasure in his retirement as a reminder of the happy years which he had spent in Hong Kong.

Captain Hosford leaves for England to-morrow by the s.s. Bawalpindi.

MITCHELL UNFIT FOR TEST

Bakewell Invited To Old Trafford

London, to-day. Mitchell, the Yorkshire opening batsman who scored 58 and 72 in his first Test at Leeds a fortnight ago, has reported unfit for the fourth Test against the South Africans, which opens at Old Trafford to-morrow. Bakewell, the young Northants batsman, has been invited to attend in his place.

Reuter. Bakewell opened the season well with 121 against Glamorgan, but then struck a bad patch which he only recently got over, with scores of 29, also against Glamorgan, and 141 out of 194 against Worcester. Last season he scored three centuries in his 1418 runs in the county championship. In the 1933 season he scored 107 in the third Test against the West Indies at the Oval.

INCIDENT REPORTED IN INDIA

Village Raided By British Soldiers
12 INJURED: ONE KILLED

London, To-day.

The Under-Secretary for India, Mr. R. A. Butler, answered a question in the House of Commons yesterday regarding a reported incident near Jubbulpore in India, in which British soldiers and Indian villagers were concerned.

He said that the India Office had only so far a brief telegraphic report of this regrettable incident, but a more detailed account would be received when the local investigations had been completed. He read an official statement issued at Simla, to the effect that from reports received at the Army Headquarters, the facts appeared to be as follows:

On July 17 a woman of the village of Karodi, frightened by a British soldier and fearing molestation, gave an alarm, whereupon some villagers turned out and assaulted the soldier, who was rescued by an individual from another village and is now in hospital. The next night a party of men from his regiment raided another village, mistaking it for Karodi, and injured 13 villagers, of whom one has since died.

The statement announces that as soon as the incident was reported the local military commander began an investigation in consultation with the civil authorities, and that in the meantime the regiment concerned had been confined to barracks.—British Wireless Service.

SOUTH AFRICANS WIN

London, To-day.

A double century partnership by Norman Kilner, brother of the late Roy Kilner, and Frank Santall, who received a benefit match against Sussex last Saturday, was responsible for Warwickshire's eighth success in the county cricket championship when they beat Worcester by an innings and 121 runs at Worcester yesterday.

Scores, as cabled by Reuter, were: Warwickshire beat Worcestershire by an innings and 121 runs at Worcester. Worcester: 200 (B. W. Quaise 96 not out); 198 (Hollies 8 for 61). Warwick: 519 for 7 dec. (Kilner 228, Santall 101).

The South Africans beat Northumberland by 8 wickets at Northumberland. Northumberland: 198 (R. J. Crisp 6 for 41) and 222. S. Africans: 323 and 101 for 2.

Man From Jungle
Fined

London.

After four years in the jungle, Edward Bayley, 30, of Heron House, Chorley Wood, Herts, returned to England and was entertained at a reunion dinner.

There was a sequel at the Marylebone Police-court, when he was fined £20, with 10 guineas costs, for driving a drink and in a manner

Man Emerges From Under The Bed But Woman Holds On

Charged with being found on the second floor of No. 143, Belchers Street, early yesterday morning for an unlawful purpose, Luk Wah-tung, unemployed, was sentenced to six months' hard labour by Mr. W. Schofield at the Central Magistrate's court this morning.

Appearing for the prosecution, Detective Sergeant Kingston stated that the complainant, a married woman named Ip Chuk-ye, returned to her house at about 2 a.m. yesterday

To-day's Short Story.

Under The Skin

IN the tiny cabin tucked away behind the giant fuel tanks in the nacelle, Kane fought desperately to keep himself awake. It takes energy to fight sleep, and every minute increasing nerve strain and lack of rest gave him less energy to fight with. The instrument panel before him was blurred, his sense of touch was going. He knew that soon he must be asleep. He knew, too, that it was worse with Irvine—the figure slumped beside him at the controls of the Heston-Spurrier Mark IX.

Three days now since they had left New York on this race across the world—three hops, Pernambuco, Brazil; Tamatave, Madagascar; and Geraldton, Western Australia. Well, Geraldton was behind now and Sydney and a bed two hours ahead. With five hours in hand to reach Sydney, success was in sight. But they had to keep awake, both of them.

Under a thin moon great strips of Australia were unrolling below as they tore east at a ground speed of over 300 m.p.h. The Flinders Mountains lay ahead, to the north and at the back now lay Lake Torrens. Kane tried to concentrate on his route to keep his mind active. Irvine should be winning.

FALSE PRETENCES

London.

Offences at Aylesbury and Huddersfield were taken into consideration when Drogo Edward Baskerville Polwhele, 38, appeared at Lincoln Police-court recently, charged on remand with obtaining £2 10s. by false pretences from a Lincoln woman.

Polwhele stated at a previous hearing that he was a nephew of the late Lord Kingsale.

A detective stated that since Polwhele's arrest on May 24 complaints had been received from the police at Aylesbury and Huddersfield.

Chance By Bench

The Bench said they had decided to give Polwhele a chance to make good, because if they had adopted any other course disgrace would have been brought on innocent members of his family.

He was placed on probation for two years, on the condition that full restitution was made to the people at Lincoln, Huddersfield and Aylesbury.

The chairman referred to assistance offered to Polwhele by those associated with the school at which he was educated.

The fact that these people had come forward to save his old school from disgrace, he said, placed on Polwhele an obligation to go straight in future.

dangerous to the public. He was disqualified from driving for 12 months.

Mr. Parker, prosecuting, said that at 5.40 a.m. Miss Edith Coyle, of Third-avenue, Queens Park, was walking on the pavement along Chapel-street from the Edgware-road, when she was knocked down by Mr. Bayley's car.

Mr. C. V. Allen, for the defence, said that Mr. Bayley had spent the last eight years in the Burmese jungles. After four years of compulsory abstinence from alcohol he went to a reunion dinner of his colleagues.

She found her clothes chest open, and when she began to search the house defendant suddenly sprang out from under the bed and made an attempt to escape. Complainant caught hold of him and handed him over to a constable who appeared on the scene.

The complainant stated Sergeant Kincaid, received a frightful shock when defendant sprang out from under the bed. Defendant was also ordered to be placed under police supervision for a period of two years.

height now to climb through the gap in the range over Hawker. Bending stiffly forward, he peered at the instruments, shot a quick look out into the thin cloud layers ahead, then dived an arm across at the pilot beside him. "Irvine, you fool!" he shouted. "Wake up!"

The heavily-built, blond figure straightened from where it had fallen over the controls. The keen grey eyes were glazed from lack of sleep. "Sorry," Irvine mumbled. "Mus' pull her up for the hills."

TO-MORROW'S STORY

To-morrow's story will be "Merely In Memory," by Vicky Haynes.

Twisting in his seat Kane began systematically slapping his shoulders. Kane himself had snatched a few hours sleep here and there since leaving Newark Field in a blaze of publicity three days before, but this lumbering, easy-going, good-natured pilot had taken exactly four hours' sleep at Tamatave during refuelling.

"That man," the port medico at Geraldton had warned Kane, "can't last. He's three parts gone from lack of rest. You can't go on. It's suicide."

Irvine had said something terse to that. He wasn't quitting on the last leg. Kane had been at school with this man. If you asked him he would have told you the simple truth. Irvine was the straightest, whitest man he knew. You couldn't imagine Irvine doing anything underhand. His face was open as a book and he always had that slow smile of his for everything. There was a fine die-in-the-last-ditch courage about him. Kane, the navigator, had a great admiration for his pilot.

"Two hours to go, buddy," he said. "For God's sake keep going."

"Go easy on the old collar bone, boy," Irvine managed sleepily. "I'm all right. We're practically there now." His frame sagged under a long-drawn yawn. "Oh, what am I goin'-to bed in Sydney?"

"Take another drink of brandy?"

"I'm nearly tight now, I . . ." He slumped over the wheel again, and Kane jerked him back. "All right! All right!" he protested irritably, as the other thumped him vigorously. "Leave me alone, can't you?"

The burst of irritation had roused him. Kane left him for the moment, more fully awake himself. They were climbing steadily. The gap in the range showed clear-cut before them against the purple sky. The drone of the four super-charged engines came back sweetly. If only they could keep awake.

Planning the trip back in New York, they had anticipated this difficulty. Over the Indian Ocean they had filled themselves with coffee. There had been the tablets, the electrically heated over-boots. Kane's feet were practically fried now; but that irritant no longer had effect. It seemed to him as he watched the grey rock of the mountains slip back under them that there was no remedy left against the mental numbness except sheer will power to keep going.

The town of Hawker was expected then. Beacon lights showed as they cut through the range. A straight run now across the Australian plains, picking up the railway at Broken Hill to take them direct to Sydney. New York to Sydney in three days!

A drunken lurch by the machine brought Kane to with a jerk. They were side-slipping, and Irvine, unheeding, sprawled forward over his controls. A sudden nervous race seized Kane. He hit the figure sharply with his elbow, and seizing the muffler shook him violently. Even so, it took time for the pilot to realize where he was. "Wake up! Wake up!" he heard himself screaming.

"I'm dead! I'm all in," Irvine mumbled as he righted the machine. "Lemme sleep."

"If I knock hell out of you!" Kane threatened. "You loose!" Irvine turned his head to glare at his navigator. "Touch me again, and you'll regret it. Who's flying this machine?" "You're having a good time sleeping all over the controls."

INCORRIGIBLE CITIZEN

German Communist
To Die

HIGH TREASON CASE

— CHINA MAIL — SPECIAL

Berlin, To-day.
The first instance of the use of the special powers granted on April 24 to the People's Court, constituted to try the most glaring cases of high treason, occurred yesterday, when a 41-year-old resident of Brunswick named Rudolf Claus, with a long record of crime and Communist subversion to his account, was condemned to death and the loss of all civic rights.

Claus was sentenced to penal servitude for life for his part in the Communist insurrection of 1921, but was amnestied. Among other crimes he was again sentenced to eight years' penal servitude in 1924 for robbery with violence. All efforts to change Claus's mode of life proved entirely fruitless. — Trans-Ocean Service.

GERMAN FLYING SCHOOLS

Inspection By Italian Officers

— CHINA MAIL — SPECIAL

Berlin, To-day.
A deputation of Italian officers paid a visit to the national flying school in Lancha, Thuringia, on Wednesday in order to obtain information of the flying instruction being given to German youth. The visitors witnessed variations of gliding as well as inspecting the equipment of the flying school. They expressed great appreciation of what they saw.

The Italians are now back in Berlin and will be given an opportunity to inspect the remaining branches of the German aerial organisation. — Trans-Ocean Service.

STEEL HELMETS IN GERMANY

Dissolution Proceeds Apace

— CHINA MAIL — SPECIAL

Berlin, To-day.
The process of the dissolution of the National Socialist Front Fighters League, formerly the Steel Helmets, continues to make rapid progress.

An official statement issued yesterday announces that the Mecklenburg political police have ordered the immediate dissolution as well as the sequestration of the funds of the branches of the League in the districts of Parchim and Ludwigslust, and in the town of Waren. — Trans-Ocean Service.

PARLIAMENT GOES INTO RECESS

Holidays To Begin On Friday Next

— CHINA MAIL — SPECIAL

London, To-day.
The Prime Minister, Mr. Stanley Baldwin, yesterday announced in the House of Commons that the House would adjourn for the summer recess on Friday of next week.

On Thursday there will be a discussion on international affairs and the leader of the Opposition, Mr. George Lansbury, intimated that the Labour Party had decided against tabling a motion.

Mr. Baldwin replied that he was very glad, because the position regarding affairs on the Continent at the moment was critical and he thought a general debate would be better. — British Wireless Service.

"Suffolk" Arrives With Valued Cargo

SPECIAL PRECAUTIONS TAKEN AT EVERY STAGE

— CHINA MAIL — SPECIAL

London, To-day.
The cruiser Suffolk reached Portsmouth yesterday with a consignment of art treasures of value, variously estimated at between £2,000,000 and £16,000,000. It is probably the first time a British warship has carried works of art.

The Suffolk has returned for refit and by special arrangement between the Chinese and British Governments, transported exhibits which are being loaned from the Imperial collection for the purpose of the Exhibition of Chinese Art to be held in London at Burlington House on the lines of the Italian and Persian exhibitions of recent years.

Special precautions had been taken during each stage of the journey and after unloading, nearly 100 cases containing over 1,000 items, including ivories, bronzes, sculptures, paintings, carvings, tapestries, textiles, porcelain, jewels and rare books, were taken by road to London on Government lorries under a strong police escort.

Museum experts will arrive later from China to supervise the unpacking of the objects, which illustrate 4,000 years of Chinese art. — British Wireless Service.

NEWSPAPER BOYS' CLUB PROMISED

Preliminary Meeting Held

— CHINA MAIL — SPECIAL

BISHOP HALL'S IDEA
Provided the co-operation of the proprietors of the Chinese newspapers is forthcoming, a club for newspaper boys will be formed locally in the near future.

The Right Reverend Bishop R. O. Hall, the original sponsor of the idea, and several prominent personalities of the Colony including Mr. W. Schofield, the chief magistrate, and Mr. R. C. H. Lim, barrister-at-law, were elected to an ad hoc committee at a preliminary meeting which was held recently at Mr. Lim's office.

The aims of the Chinese Newspaper Boys' Club, as it will be named, are to find employment for young offenders; to form recreation clubs for newspaper boys; and to teach members of the Club how to spend their spare time in un-harmful recreation.

Ma Kwan, a tailor living at Sheng Wan in Village, Taiipo District, has reported to the Police that at about 8.30 p.m. on Wednesday he was informed by some people living at Ha Wan in Village that they had heard shouts for help near the beach.

Running in that direction he saw a Chinese male being washed down the hill stream to the sea, but was unable to save him. The man is thought to be his brother, Ma Kee.

The body has not yet been recovered.

ANOTHER CASE OF DOG-BITE

Five-Year-Old Bitten By Bull Terrier

— CHINA MAIL — SPECIAL

Miss P. Landau, of 20 Hankow Road, Kowloon, has reported to the Police to the effect that about 10 a.m. on Wednesday her five-year-old girl named Dolores Landau, at the above address, was taken to the Kowloon Hospital for treatment, and the dog was removed to Matankok where it is being kept under observation.

This was the psychological moment which Budge selected to launch an offensive. He won eighth from 15, the ninth after several strenuous rallies, and the 10th with the loss of only one point on his service.

This spurt, cool and unexpected, was more than Austin seemed to bargain for. For the first time one began to compare the relative stamina of the two men and to wonder whether the smaller and less sturdily built could stand the continuous hammering which Budge was now out to give. Budge should have led 6-5, but was too exuberant. Austin but was ahead at 7-6 and 8-7, but in each successive game he was required to go through the painful ceremony of receiving Budge's service.

Budge Breaks Through
Finally, in the 17th game, Budge himself broke through. The exhaustion which Austin was now betraying must have helped him to serve his best in the clinching game. He took it from 15, and the match was level at one set all.

In the 3rd set, which Budge captured from 4, the Californian held more winning cards. He was clipping the lines where he had previously crossed them; he was passing Austin when he came in.

The length of the second set—had Austin won it all might have been different—had forced the Englishman to slow down; he could not get up for enough to make the downward volley.

In the fourth set, continuing his merciless pressure, Budge went to 3-1 and then 4-2. But in the next three games his lifting drives were falling out, and when Austin got to 5-4 after a long game, the result wavered again. Three times Austin had set point. A fine match player was revealed in saving them. Twice Budge struck the line with a winner; the third time he forced Austin to net.

Austin Outmanoeuvred
Then he carried the game and went ahead at 6-5. Two match balls were rescued by Austin in the 12th game, but the youth from San Francisco was not to be denied. He outmanoeuvred his man to win the clinching point.

The winner will meet von Cramm tomorrow. I said yesterday morning that Budge was improving in every match and that, like McLoughlin, who burst upon the world after one tournament, the measure of his merit could not be calculated by past performances.

INTERPORT TENNIS IN SHANGHAI

Hong Kong Requests September Dates

— CHINA MAIL — SPECIAL

Shanghai, July 23.
Interport tennis arrangements are progressing satisfactorily, and both Hongkong and Tientsin have tentatively accepted. It is understood that in view of the Chinese National Sports fixture, the date for the triangular contest be advanced from the middle of September to the end of September. This suggestion has met with the support of the Shanghai Lawn Tennis Association who are now in communication with Tientsin, and on receipt of their reply, it is to be hoped that the Colony will receive a favourable answer to their request, which if granted will see the leading men and women players from Hong Kong in this port.

A selection committee has been appointed by the S.L.T.A. to go into the question of selecting Shanghai's representatives for the coming contest, and this committee will closely follow all championship events in order to pick on likely material. The entries for the tennis championships will close on August 3. — N.C.N.D.

WINDSOR LAD TO BE RETIRED TO STUD

Climaxes Career By Winning Eclipse Stakes

— CHINA MAIL — SPECIAL

London, July 19.
Running his last race before being retired to the stud, Mr. M. H. Benson's Windsor Lad, winner of the 1934 Derby, to-day won the Eclipse Stakes, which was run at Sandown Park over 1½ miles. The Aga Khan's Thief finished second while Mr. C. Dewar's Fair trial was third. The race was witnessed by their Majesties.

About two furlongs from home, Smirke, the winner's jockey, had to use his whip, as Windsor Lad appeared to be beaten. Slowly but surely, however, last year's Derby winner got in front inside the last furlong and cheers rang out as he passed the finishing post three-quarters of a length in front of Thief. The same distance separated second from third.

During his career, Windsor Lad won £36,256. — Reuter.

KILNER AND SANTALL IN BIG STAND

Neither player had reached three figures this season prior to this match, Kilner's best feat being 78 against Glamorgan. His 228 represents the highest individual score this season, equaling Washbrook's score against Oxford University, and the highest of his career.

Hollies, who was unable to play in the Leeds Test owing to injury, showed that he was quite fit again by taking 8 for 61 in Worcester's second innings. His best feats this season have been:—
7 for 60 v Northants
8 for 67 v Notts
3 for 89 v Kent
4 for 30 v Glamorgan
7 for 118 v Sussex
8 for 61 v Worcester

Worcester's defeat was their twelfth in the course of 20 matches in this season's championship series.

The South Africans made light work of Northumberland in their two-day "holiday" fixture on the eve of the fourth Test. Crisp securing 6 for 41.

CABIN THEFT ABOARD EMPRESS OF ASIA

Mr. C. C. Fox, Master-at-arms of the R.M.S. Empress of Asia, has reported to the Police that at about 7.35 p.m. on Thursday last week, while the vessel was lying at the Kowloon wharf, somebody entered the cabin of Dr. H. D. Kendler, a first-class passenger from Manila, and stole

COURT MARTIAL

Welch Fusilier With Bad Record

INSUBORDINATION CHARGE PROVED

Fusilier Richard Parrant, of the Royal Welch Fusiliers, was charged yesterday at a District Court Martial, sitting at Murray Barracks, with using insubordinate language to a superior officer while on guard duty at Government House.

Major T. C. Sharp, (Royal Welch Fusiliers) presided, and other officers comprising the Court were Capt. A. E. Wheatley (East Lancashire Regiment) and Lieut. D. P. St. C. Roissier (Lincolnshire Regiment). Lieut. L. H. Yates (Royal Welch Fusiliers) defended.

Accused's record contained particulars of four previous court martials, two in England for desertion, one for striking a superior officer, and the fourth at Sun Wai Camp earlier this year, when he was sentenced to 28 days' detention for absenting himself without leave.

Sentence will be promulgated later.

Under The Skin

"I've had enough lip from you, Kane. Keep your mouth shut from now on." An angry flush had come to stain his weathered cheeks. In all the years they had known each other, Kane could not recall a row with this man, Irvine was a close friend of Kane's mother, who was never more pleased than when Kane brought him to stay with them at their Berkshire home. Kane's young sister, Charibel, was inclined to be romantic about him—Kane realised that as they were planning this trip. An unreasonable rage swept him now that they should be fighting when they each of them wanted everything they had got to win through.

"Who are you to tell me to keep my mouth shut?" he shouted back. "You haven't the guts to keep yourself awake. You—a pilot! Don't make me laugh." For a moment Irvine's great hands worked, bunching themselves. "When I've landed this crate," he said, "I'm going to step up to you and sock you. Maybe I'll catch something from hitting you, but I don't care."

"You should have a chance of hitting me before worrying about that. You talk pretty big, don't you, Irvine? If I couldn't lick a big, flatfooted softie like you, I'd—"

The back of Irvine's neck was turkey-red. "You! A cock-eyed little devil with..." He trailed off. "Oh let's forget it," he yawned, and, hunching his shoulders over the wheel, stared ahead at his instruments.

Kane, seething still, became conscious that he had forgotten about sleep. He was vividly awake. It was then that the idea came to him. The flare-up between them had carried them many miles nearer their goal. Insults had roused Irvine where coffee, tablets, and everything else had failed.

"That's it! Let's forget it," he began anew. "What I would have expected from you."

The man at the wheel shook his head wearily. "What d'you mean?"

"You never could finish anything you started."

"No? What have I started that you know I've not finished?"

For half an hour Irvine carried it on, fighting every inch of the ground. Kane raked up from the past. Twice the pilot went to sleep, and twice Kane slapped him back to consciousness. As they drew nearer to Sydney, even insults began to lose their barb. Kane searched his mind for things to hurt him.

The third time Irvine fell forward over the controls. Kane grew desperate.

"You better keep awake, Irvine, for the next few minutes!" he warned. "I've got something to tell you before we reach Sydney—if we do."

"I don't want to hear anything from you, Kane. Now, or ever."

"You'll listen to this," Kane insisted quietly, "if I have to break your jaw."

"You? That's good!"

"I've known a good many years now, Irvine, the sort of low hound you were with women. But I didn't bring this particular business up before as I didn't want to wash this trip up."

He saw it take effect on the pilot. With these big men, shy with women, and carrying into manhood chivalrous, schoolboy ideals, he knew that there was one sure way to get under their skin. With Bill Irvine, though, it was a shame to do it.

"If your private life's just about as rotten as it can be," Kane insisted, "that's your own affair, although it's the sort of thing that makes most men sick."

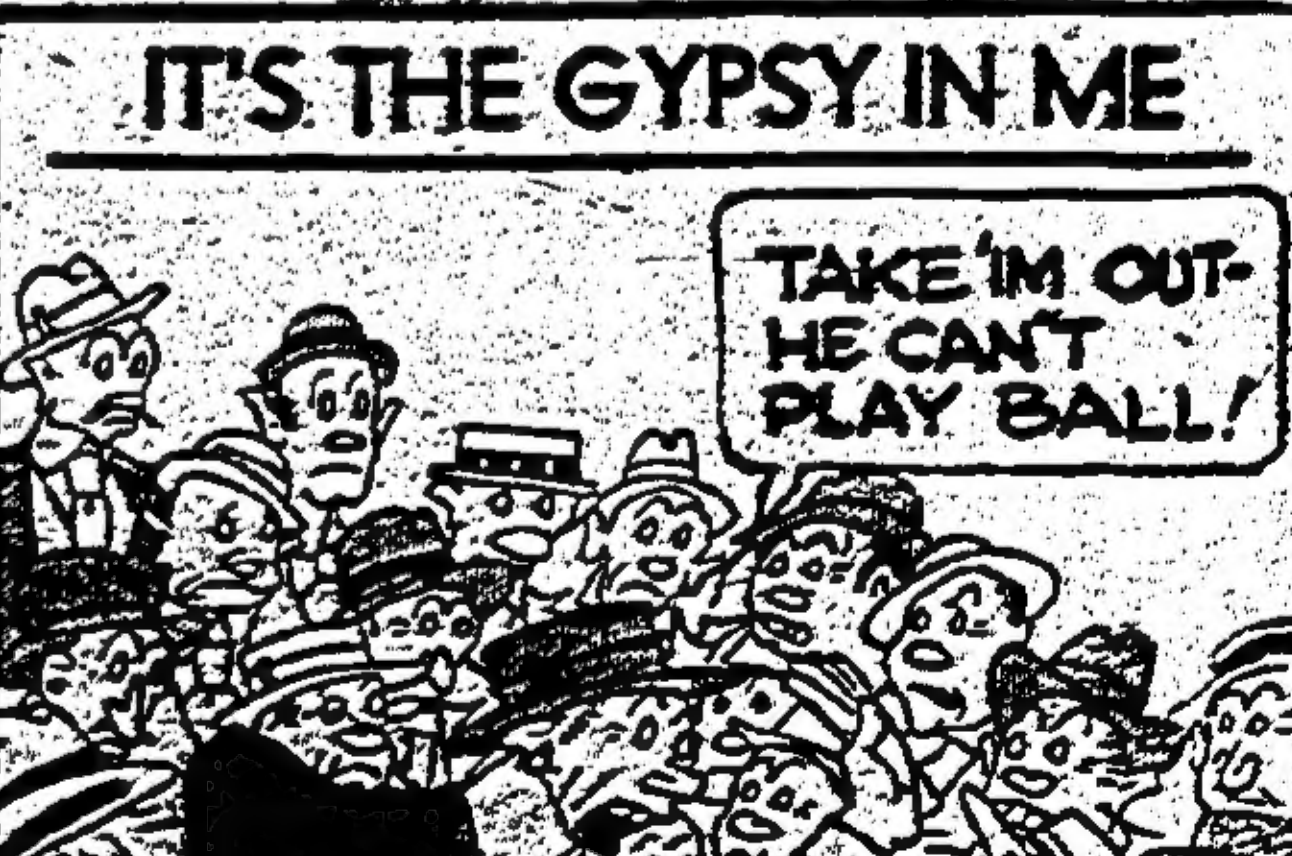

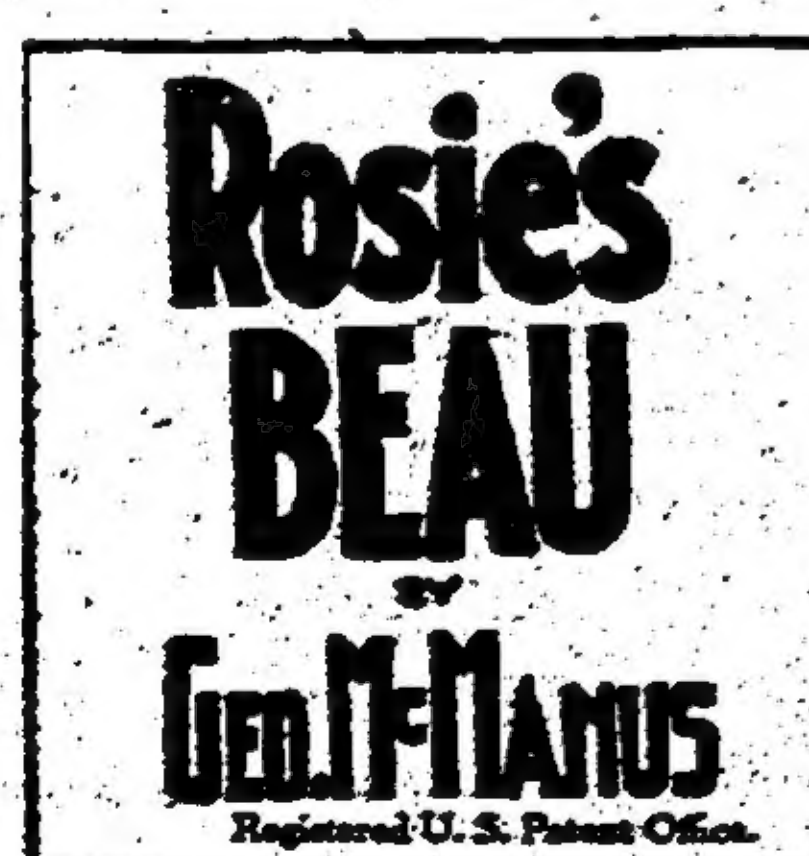

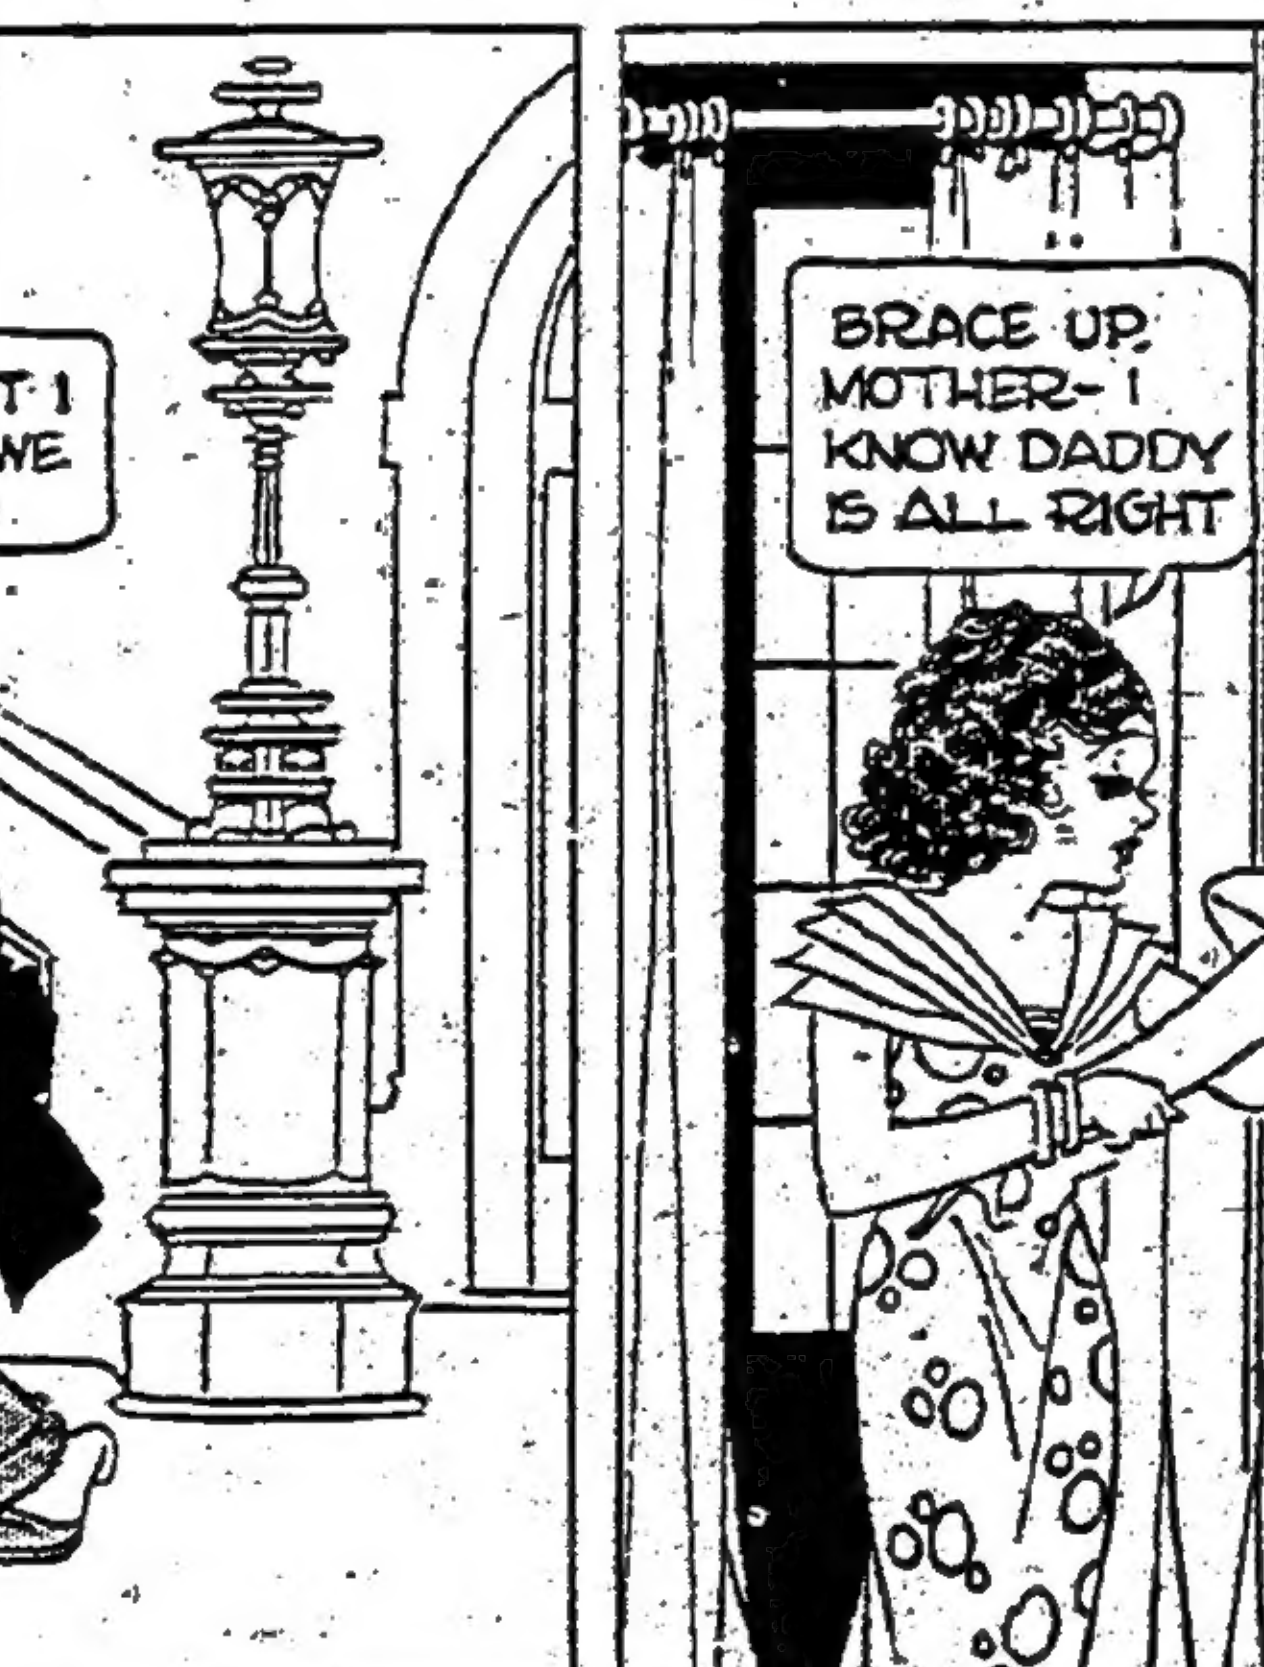

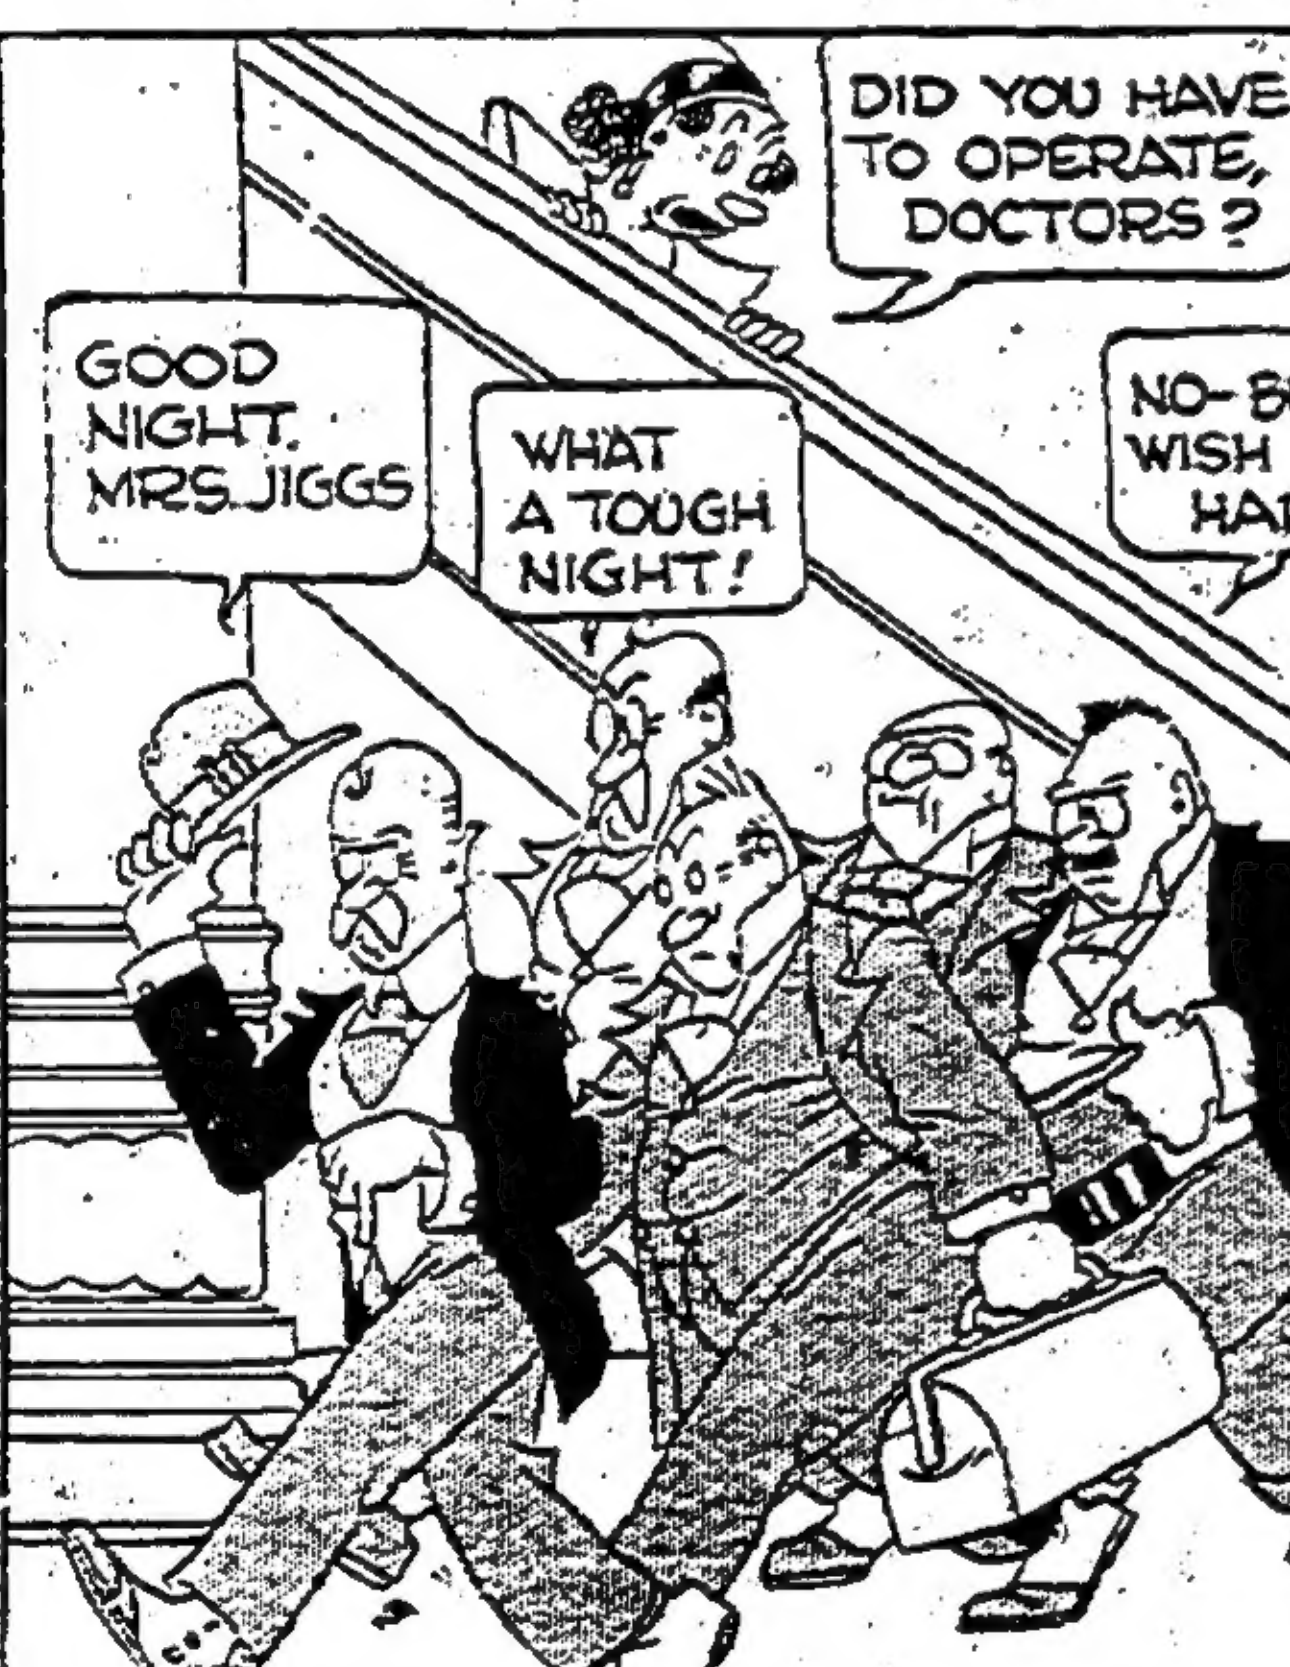

"I'm going to knock your foul little head off!"

"Not until I've had this out with you." The navigator figured that twenty minutes would see them at Sydney. "Up to a month ago I didn't care what you did. But when a man can't draw the line at decent womenfolk, even when he's stopping as your guest in your mother's house, the time's come."

"The strain's turned you potty. What are you insinuating?"

affirmative to the Italian proposal to exclude the frontier incidents from the discussions it would be regarded as equivalent to extending the period of negotiation to August 25 envisaged in the resolution of the Council, and the question of the Council meeting next week would automatically fall to the ground.

If Abyssinia should reply in the negative the meeting will take place and it is obvious that the Italian Government will endeavour to confine the discussion to the question of conciliation.

BELGIAN EMBARGO

A message from Brussels states that the Government has decided to ban the supply of arms to Abyssinia and to refuse licences for the export of arms destined for that country.

ITALY'S GOOD CASE

A message from Rome says that while official circles are resolutely silent, the general impression in well-informed circles is that Signor Mussolini will decide to send a representative to the League Council at Geneva meeting on the Italo-Abyssinian dispute. He considers that he has a very good case to submit to the Council—Reuter.

LOCAL RIDER AS COMPLAINANT

Unemployed Gaoled
For Stealing Poles

Mr. R. H. Charles, the well-known local rider, appeared as the complainant against Lau Loi, unemployed, who was charged before Mr. W. Schofield at the Central Magistracy this morning with the theft of four bamboo poles. Defendant pleaded guilty and was fined $20, in default one month's hard labour.

Mr. Charles stated that the poles were stolen from a stable which is being built in Tai Hang Road, between Broadwood Road and Stubbs Road. Several thefts had occurred previously, but the culprits had not been arrested.

MR. CHOU LU SENDS CABLE TO THE LEAGUE

It is learned here that the members of the Treaty are in receipt of identical copies of Mr. Chou Lu's telegram. The Treaty undertakes to respect the territorial integrity and political independence of China, the signatories including Great Britain, the United States, France, Japan, and others.

Notwithstanding rumours to the contrary, Chancellor Chou adheres to the principle that China should resist Japanese aggression. His unequivocal stand has drawn world-wide attention.

The Nieuwe Rotterdamse Courant declares that the Bank of the Netherlands has taken measures to repulse attacks on the guilder even in the event of further complications arising from the political situation. For instance, the Bank has taken steps to work hand in hand with the Banque de France for the defence of the guilder.

The increase of the bank rate by 2 per cent. was necessitated solely by the political crisis and the Bourse remained steady yesterday. The view seems to be gaining ground that the Parliamentary crisis will be found to be solvable without the resignation of the Cabinet—Trans-Ocean Service.

COOLIE GAOLED FOR THEFT

Caught While Wearing
Stolen Watch

Sentence of six week's hard labour was imposed on Yim Hing, a 19-year-old unemployed, who appeared before Mr. E. I. Wynne Jones at the Kowloon Magistracy this morning on a charge of stealing a wrist watch, a pocket wallet, a fountain pen, and two pairs of shoes, the property of Chan Yuet-ting, a teacher at the Kit Fong School, at No. 124 Portland Street, yesterday.

Detective-Sergeant Dowman, of the Yau-mati Police Station, stated that the defendant had been employed as a coolie by the complainant, and on Wednesday he was discharged for breaking a chair. He stayed overnight and the next morning complainant noticed the articles missing.

Complainant sent two of his other coolies to watch the Canton boats, and they arrested defendant while he was actually wearing the watch.

yesterday, demanding that on the grounds of urgency the League of Nations Council be convened immediately.

Circles here usually well-informed state that the Secretary-General of the League, M. Avenol, in conversation with the Abyssinian Minister in Paris, refused to accede to this demand, insisting instead that the Council be reassembled in conformity with the arrangements made in its decisions of May 25.

A message from Paris states that the French Foreign Office announces that the League of Nations Council meeting to deal with the Italo-Abyssinian dispute has been convened for July 31. M. Laval will leave for Geneva on Monday evening or Tuesday morning—Trans-Ocean Service.

NO EXPORT LICENCES

London, To-day. The Foreign Secretary, Sir Samuel Hoare, making his promised statement at question time in the House of Commons yesterday on the supply of arms to Italy and Abyssinia, said: "The transit of arms destined for the Government of Ethiopia across British territory or British protected territory adjacent to Ethiopia will be permitted in accordance with Article IX of the treaty of 1930. The French Government, I understand, interpret their obligation under the treaty in the same manner."

"As to the issue of export licences, His Majesty's Government are doing their best to make possible a peaceful outcome to the present unhappy dispute and would not wish to do anything which might prejudice the situation. They will therefore for the present not issue any licences for the export of arms from this country either to Italy or Abyssinia"—British Wireless Service.
